1. The Vice-Chancellor in opening the Proceedings said that the list of business was a long one, and it was inconvenient to take up the items in the order in which they stood, as some of them had, under the Regulations, to be decided at this, which was the annual meeting. He therefore proposed to take up the latter items first, namely, Nos. 7, 8 and 9 on the first paper and 19 on the second.

2. Dr. Asutosh Mukhopadhyay moved that the under-mentioned gentlemen be appointed members of the Board of Accounts for the year 1894-95 :—

Rev. K. S. Macdonald, M.A., D.D.

Babu Isanchandra Basu, M.A.

J. H. Gilliland, Esq., M.A.

The motion, which was seconded by Babu Umeschandra Datta, was carried unanimously.

3. Dr. Asutosh Mukhopadhyay moved that the accounts of the University for the period commencing on the 1st April, 1892, and ending on the 30th June, 1893, be passed.

Mr. Rowe seconded the motion, which was carried.

4. Dr. Asutosh Mukhopadhyay moved that the Report of the Syndicate for the year 1893-94 be adopted.

The motion was seconded by Maulavi Muhammad Yusoof, Khan Bahadur.

Mr. Rowe said he believed he should not be out of order in making a few remarks arising out of the report of the Syndicate. That report dealt with the conduct of examinations. On a previous occasion he had referred to this question, but it was ruled out of order, and he wished now to make one or two remarks, and then move a resolution. His remarks applied to the rules incumbent upon examiners, as laid down by the Syndicate for the conduct of examinations. The first thing he had to say was in regard to the appointment of examiners. Examiners were appointed by the Syndicate under a rule which stated that no person engaged in teaching a subject should be appointed an examiner in that subject. That rule had worked most disastrously, and, in saying this, he thought he should be supported by the opinions of a great many of those present. The way it worked was seen in several of the papers set this year. Gentlemen had been appointed to examine, who, though knowing the subject, were not acquainted with the limits of the subject. He would point specially to the papers in English, in which he had been an examiner this year. Papers were set by a gentleman from the Allahabad University, a well-known and able man, who was evidently not engaged in teaching the subject. The consequence was that some of the questions had marks assigned to them out of all proportion to the importance of the questions set. His fellow-examiner agreed with him on these points. As regards some of the other papers, other gentlemen present were more competent to speak than he was; but in the Physics paper, some of the papers set this year were entirely outside the course. This was unfair to candidates, and he believed it had arisen from the fact that the gentlemen who had set the papers were not engaged in teaching.

Another point which he wished to mention was the extraordinary hurry the University appeared to be in to get out results. He had calculated that if he had done his papers in time, he should have had to work nine hours and three-quarters a day, hard work, for some thirty-four days, Sundays included, in addition to his own work—a thing it was not possible for any human being to do. Why there was this great hurry he did not profess to know. The fact was that it did a great deal of harm to the work. He did not know whether he should be in order in proposing a resolution, which was to this effect: "That considering the unsatisfactory nature of some of the questions which were set at the recent examinations, the Senate recommend to the Syndicate that a small Committee of experts be appointed to advise the Syndicate with regard to the appointment of a Permanent Board of Revising Examiners." By revising examiners, he meant gentlemen who would look over the questions before they were sent to England to be printed, and who, in consultation with the examiners, would state whether they were within the course or not. If he was in order, he would propose this motion.

The Rev. H. Whitehead said he had much pleasure in seconding Mr. Rowe's resolution. He could not help thinking that a Committee of Enquiry was very desirable on the whole subject of examinations. There was a very obvious anomaly in the appointment of examiners. There was a very limited number of people out here who were devoted to education, and they had not got, what existed in England, a large number of those who were perfectly competent to examine, but who were not engaged in educational work, and they had no people here with literary leisure upon whom they could fall back. So that there was this anomaly, that there was a large class of people here who devoted their time to teaching and studying philosophy, and who were yet, precluded from examining in philosophy. This being so, it was impossible they could have a satisfactory system. Then again they needed not only a revising committee to look over the papers, but also a committee to revise the results of examinations. Almost every single year it happened that there was some dispute or other, or an attempt made by agitation from outside to alter the results of examinations, which he thought was a most unsatisfactory state of things, and derogatory to the dignity of the University. If it occurred once or twice, it might be well to say nothing; but when for years there was a constant pressure put upon the University to revise the results of examinations, surely, something ought to be done to put the conduct of the examinations above suspicion, and enable the University to make a firm stand against these periodical agitations.

The Vice-Chancellor in ruling on the point of order, said he was glad to hear the remarks which had been made on the subject, but he did not think the matter could be properly raised at that meeting. There was a general rule that no subject should come before the Senate, which had not been previously considered and decided upon by the Syndicate; and the particular question proposed had not been so decided upon. It was a most important question; but the matter had better be withdrawn now, and brought before the Syndicate upon another occasion.

Mr. Rowe said he should be glad to do that, provided it was understood the question was not to be burked. If it was understood, that he would be allowed to bring it forward again, he should withdraw it now.

The Vice-Chancellor gave the assurance that if Mr. Rowe brought forward the matter formally, it would receive full consideration; on which Mr. Rowe withdrew his motion.

Dr. Asutosh Mukhopadhyay's motion was then put to the meeting and carried.

5. Dr. Āsutosh Mukhopadhyay moved that the Faculties or the year 1894-95 be constituted as follows :—

The motion which was seconded by Maulavi Muhamud Yusoof, Khan Bahadur, was carried.

12. The Vice-Chancellor moved that the following recommendation of the Syndicate be adopted :—

That in the Regulations for the examination for the degree of M. A. (page 44 of the University Calendar for 1893) the following be substituted for paragraph 7 :—

“The examination in Mental and Moral Philosophy shall include Psychology, Logic, Ethics and Natural Theology as in the B. A. Honour examination, but more fully developed ; together with Political Philosophy and the History of Indian and European Philosophy (both General and Special) the subject in Political Philosophy and History of Philosophy (Special) to be selected from year to year."

Babu Kalicharan Banerji seconded the motion, which was carried.

13. Surgeon Lt.-Col. McConnell moved that the following recommendation of the Faculty of Medicine be adopted :—

"That clause (a) in para. 2 of the Regulations for the degree of Doctor in Medicine (page 63 of the University Calendar for 1893) excluding from admission to the examination for the degree all such Bachelors of Medicine as have not passed the B. A. examination, be rescinded as a hardship and as being not in accordance with the Regulations of any existing British University."

The mover said he should endeavour to be as brief as he could upon this point of principle, as it was a resolution which had been hanging over for some time. He thought he could fairly compress what he had to urge, inasmuch as his original letter to the Syndicate, he believed, had been circulated, and it contained practically the reasons for bringing forward this motion. He wished to say a word in respect of the importance of the question to the medical graduates of the University. The title of Doctor was one which he might venture to state in a certain way belonged purely to the medical profession. There were Doctors of Philosophy, Doctors of Law, and so on, but these were honorary degrees which carried with them no doubt indications of high proficiency in the different professions to which they referred, but an M. D. was an essential necessity for all who aspired to practice medicine in modern times. The term "Doctor" in medicine, was one in common use, employed as a matter of courtesy, but that was a very different thing from the legal right to use that title. This was a matter which should be remembered in the discussion. The difficulty in this University was to obtain the M. D. degree, and candidates had been debarred from obtaining it in their own University; and as he had said in his letter, something must be done to meet the difficulty. If they looked at the calendar, there were only 8. M. D.'s. Of these one obtained the degree in 1862, two in 1863, one in 1865; then there was not a single one for fifteen years; one obtained the degree in 1880, then there were no M. D.'s for seven years, and then from 1888 to 1891 there were only three. Now this seemed to him very peculiar, and if they compared it with the highest degree in Arts, the M. A., they would find that whereas there were 8 M. D.'s, there were over 900 M. A.'s. It had been objected that this was not a fair comparison and that the same thing held good in most Universities. He begged to state that this was not the case. Take for instance, the University of London, upon which he ventured to say their University was modelled. What were the results there? In the last calendar, that for 1893-94 he found the M. A.'s numbered 466, and the M. D.'s 656, that is 190 more. Then there was the matter of the hardship which had been mentioned to him for many years back of graduates who were willing to go forward with their professional work, but who were debarred by reason of the necessity of passing the B. A. examination. The matter was brought before the Syndicate who referred it to the Faculty of Medicine, and that Faculty made the proposal which was now before the meeting and which was carried by an overwhelming majority. So that they would understand that the desire of the Medical Faculty, who it may be presumed were best fitted to give an opinion on a point like this, was practically unanimous as to the necessity for a change in the Regulations and for affording facilities in advancing their graduates. Now what were the examinations? A candidate in commencing his medical career at the University had to pass the F. A. He then commenced the study of medicine, the curriculum extending over five years, during which period he was engaged in medical work. If he was a successful student he obtained the M. B. degree at the end of this period. After having obtained this degree they tell him he must now stop, as he could not go further, unless he could go to England or devote his time to the study of literature, mathematics and other studies for the B. A. This was the hardship complained of, and which did not exist in other Faculties. For instance, compare it with the Regulations for the D. L. Here there was no examination at all, the candidate had to pass no examination in Law but only submit an essay upon some subject connected with Law or Jurisprudence to be approved of by the President of the Faculty of Law. In the Faculty of Medicine students who had gained Honours were not allowed, until they were B. A.'s, to enter for the M. D. It did not matter how highly they had qualified in professional subjects they were debarred. Take again the Engineering Faculty.

Here again there was no examination for the Master-ship, but simply passing with Honour and writing a Thesis, and the candidate becomes an M. E. But the preliminary qualifying examination was the F. A. This was how the matter stood here. Then if they went to England they found that year after year the professional requirements for medicine were becoming so large and so wide in their scope, that the tendency was to prolong professional studies and not to insist upon high qualifications in preliminary education or the Arts. Up to recently four years was the maximum, and it was now extended to five. All the Universities, except those of Oxford and Dublin, do not require the B. A. degree; Cambridge used to insist but had abandoned it. The Senate would understand that at Home there was a wide field; here it was limited. He meant that candidates aspiring to be M. D.'s could go either to Cambridge, Edinburgh, Aberdeen or Glasgow, there being a large number of Universities where he could qualify and pass. He might mention that in all Scotch Universities, their Calcutta Entrance examination was recognized, and candidates could proceed Home and qualify and get the M. D. after further professional studies in the Scotch Universities, but here, although he passed the F. A., a degree, higher than the Entrance, he was prohibited from entering for the M. D. degree.

There had been a great deal said about the motion having a tendency to lower the status of the degree. He thought this was a very false statement. There was no desire to lower the status of the professional attainments of candidates; it was distinctly stated that the professional examination should be retained; it was said, make that examination as stiff as you liked, but what was objected to was that candidates having passed the M. B. should be debarred on account of the higher preliminary examination. It seemed anomalous that this should be the case.

Then again there was the question of the length of time. Already it was five years, and the extension of a further length of time in order to obtain the B. A., would divert students from their proper professional studies. If there was one thing more clearly understood than another, it was this: that in order to enable graduates to excel in their profession, they must continue working. The subjects were very wide and were expanding every day, and it was a retrograde process to compel a graduate to lay down his proper studies and engage in others which were far removed.

Then came the question whether the superior qualifications of the B. A. course tended to facilitate the requirements of professional work. He questioned whether this was the case. The matter of the higher qualification had been abandoned practically by a great majority of the Universities, and if they came to their own experience here, there was this to be said that speaking generally, it was not your B. A.s as a rule who were bright and brilliant students, but a large proportion of L. M. S.s. who never could obtain the M. B., and about whom this question had never come up at all. Take the honours list, out of 36, 15 were L. M. S. men, who had succeeded only with their F. A., and who stand ahead of numbers of men who have had a higher elementary education. Formerly the qualification here was the Entrance, and it was only in recent years that the F. A. had been introduced.

These were some of the points he wished to bring before the Senate. It was a real hardship upon graduates, who were legitimately ambitious to excel in their profession, that they should be debarred by the Art qualification from proceeding further. It was an anomaly also, for it was a position which had been abandoned by a large majority of the Universities at Home. They therefore stood in rather a peculiar position in respect to the Universities in Great Britain. The only exception was the London University where a professional examination had to be passed. But this had been very much modified. For instance, the examination there includes the subjects of Medicine, Psychology and Clinical Medicine, and the writing of a Thesis. If the last was approved of then the candidate was exempt from any written examination which become simply oral and clinical.

This was the position of graduates before the Senate. The proposal, he would again say, was not in any way to depreciate or override the professional examination, which was required by the existing Regulations for the M. D. Further than that the Faculty was most willing to also insist, if it met with the approval of the Senate, upon an additional test by way of the production of a Thesis on any original subject in medical science to be written by the candidate and laid before the Faculty for approval. This in itself, would, he thought, overcome or meet all the objections which may be raised as to the necessity for a higher English qualification. It would be seen from matter of this kind, from the way in which he wrote the original thesis, whether the candidate's knowledge of English was of a high standard or not. This was the matter now before the Senate. He had not included it in his proposition, because it would be asking the Senate to alter a certain clause. He laid special stress upon the fact that they had no object in depreciating the M. D. degree, nor was there any likelihood of there being any rush for this degree. There were not many candidates who were willing to devote the extra time from their profession to labour in acquiring the highest degree. A large proportion of them have to earn their daily bread, and when they qualified and obtained their M. B. degree, they were only anxious very often to enter Government service or set up for themselves to obtain a living. But there were others who had opportunities, who took up appointments as House Surgeons in their hospitals, and who in that way were enabled to keep up their professional knowledge and reading, who were anxious to obtain the highest recognised degree. It was these men who would probably come forward to obtain the M. D. degree. So that he demurred entirely to the view that the Faculty in bringing forward their view, did anything to lower the status of the degree. It was not lowering the status because the degree was a professional one, and they wanted the highest professional qualification and not a lower qualification. They desired to facilitate the acquiring of the M. D. degree and to allow it to be, which it was not now, a test of the highest professional knowledge.

Speaking on this matter he might perhaps before concluding read a short extract from one of the daily papers in respect to this question, because it put so clearly, the view an outsider would naturally take of the question. The extract ran thus:—

“On what arguments the existing regulation is based we do not know, but the obvious implication is that the M. D. degree is regarded by the University not merely as a medical distinction, connoting professional eminence but as a distinction of a more complex kind, connoting also a higher degree of general culture than that implied in the passing of the First Arts examination; and the whole question of the desirability of maintaining the regulation, or rescinding it, turns upon the question whether this is a reasonable and proper view of the matter or not. Now, it seems to us unquestionable that, if there is any virtue whatever in academic degrees, then there ought to be some medical degree by which purely professional attainments of a higher order than those necessary for the mere qualifying M. B. may be marked and if the degree of M. D. of the Calcutta University is not such a degree, then there is no such degree open to its graduates. But under the existing regulations, not merely is the M. D. not such a degree, inasmuch as to obtain it, the candidate must prove his possession of non-profession qualifications of a higher order than those required from the general body of medical graduates, but the proof required of these qualifications is of such a kind that in order to furnish it the candidate must, in most cases, undertake a course of reading eminently calculated to divert him from his professional practice or studies. By all means let the University, if it thinks fit, insist upon a reasonably severe professional examination for the degree of M. D. whether accompanied or not by the submission of such a thesis as that required by the Universities of the United Kingdom, but let it abandon a restriction which tends to deprive special professional merit of distinct recognition."

Rai Lalmadhab Mukerjee Bahadur seconded the motion.

Babu Kailaschunder Bose said that after the able manner in which the proposition had been put, little remained to be said. The proposed alterations in the existing Regulations would not in the slightest degree affect students for the M. D. examination. The mover of the resolution who in this instance was President of the Medical Faculty, intended to remedy the existing restrictions on students aspiring to the highest degree. In England and in Scotland such restrictions were not observed, and M. B.'s could become M. D.'s after a definite period of their professional career. He confessed that M. D. ought to mean something more than a minimum qualification and to attain the highest honour in medicine would require the greatest amount of labour, but that was no reason why they should make the M. B. examination unnecessarily strict by including general subjects into the curriculum of medical studies. Thesis writing was a most important qualification for medical men, and to their shame be it said that the M. B.'s of this University lack much in this respect, as not one man had as yet contributed anything to medical literature.

Dr. Nilratan Sircar said "I feel a good deal of delicacy and hesitation as a very junior member of the Senate in rising to oppose a measure which has received the countenance of many of my superiors, with whom I regret to have to differ at the call of duty which I cannot overlook. The resolution of the Faculty of Medicine before you recommends the withdrawal of the B. A. as a preliminary qualification for the M. D. degree on two grounds :—

(a) That such omission would assimilate the course further to that of British Universities.

(b) That the present regulation is a hardship.

. With regard to the first of these two grounds, it is necessary to examine at some length the preliminary qualification demanded in British Universities and especially in the London University, which is the model of the University of Calcutta.

In that University every candidate for the M. D. has to pass in the first instance what is called the Matriculation examination comprising—

- (1) Latin.
- (2) English.
- (3) A third language.
- (4) Mathematics.
- (5) Mechanics.
- (6) One of the following branches of science :—

- (a) Chemistry.
- (b) Heat and Light.
- (c) Magnetism and Electricity.
- (d) Botany.

—six subjects in all.

After this he has to pass what is called the Preliminary Scientific examination comprising—

- (1) Inorganic Chemistry.
- (2) Experimental Physics, including besides Natural Philosophy, Acoustics, Heat, Magnetism, Electricity and Optics.
- (3) Botany.
- (4) Zoology.

and three very stiff practical examinations. Now a glance at the papers set in this examination will show that it is a most difficult examination demanding in the student a knowledge much higher than what is demanded here in our Preliminary Scientific M. B. and B. A. candidates.

The candidate has next to pass the M. B. examination in which occurs an extra subject (an extremely difficult one) viz., Organic Chemistry in addition to those that we have here in Calcutta.

Further in the examination for the M. D., a candidate must also pass a very difficult examination in Psychology (Mental Physiology.)

It is for you to see whether this standard of general culture is not higher than the B. A. and the Preliminary Scientific M. B. of the Calcutta University whose course comprise in science—

(a) For the B. A.—

- (1) English language.
- (2) Mathematics, Hydrostatics, Dynamics.
- (3) One of the following groups of scientific subjects :—
 - (a) Physics and Chemistry.
 - (b) Physiology and Botany.
 - (c) Physiology and Zoology.
 - (d) Geology and Mineralogy, and no practical examination.

and (b) for the Preliminary Scientific :—

- (1) Chemistry with one or two questions in Elementary Physics. One paper.
- (2) Botany. One paper.
- (3) Zoology. One paper.

with one practical examination, in Chemistry.

But here there is no provision whatever for two very important subjects, viz.:—

Psychology and Physics (Experimental,) competence in which is insisted upon in the London University. It will be seen again that a medical candidate has facilities to pass both his B. A. and Preliminary Scientific by taking up English, Mathematics, Physiology, Botany, Zoology and Chemistry.

We come now to the other British Universities. In the Oxford University, a candidate must be a B. A. before he can be a Bachelor of Medicine.

In Cambridge, a candidate, if he is not already a B. A. must pass two very stiff previous examinations, in which Greek, Latin and Mathematics are compulsory subjects, before he can qualify himself as an M. B.

In Durham a candidate for a medical degree must either be a B. A., or must pass a special examination in Arts of the University of Durham.

In Victoria University, a medical candidate must pass likewise special examination in Latin, Mathematics, Mechanics, English and any two of the following subjects, viz.: (1) French, (2) German, (3) Higher Mathematics, (4) Greek, (5) English History.

In the Scottish Universities a candidate must pass a special preliminary examination in—

- (1) English language.
 - (2) Latin.
 - (3) A third language.
 - (4) Mathematics.
 - (5) Mechanics, Hydrostatics, Kinetics and Statics
- before he can proceed to his P. S. examination.

In the Dublin University the candidate for a medical degree must be a Bachelor of Arts of that University. Further in all these Universities, the candidate for the M. B. degree has to further pass his P. S. examination in which unlike our P. S. four subjects occur, viz.:—

- (1) Physics.
- (2) Chemistry.
- (3) Botany.
- (4) Zoology.

in any one of which a written and a thorough practical examination is held.

It thus appears that in British Universities either the B. A. or tests at least equally stiff are enforced as preliminary qualifications for the medical degrees.

Curtailling the preliminary standard for our highest medical degree will, it will therefore appear, be no assimilation to English standards at all.

With reference to the second ground on which the case for the proposed alteration rests—the alleged ground of hardship—I have already referred to the special facilities in the way of medical students intending to graduate in Arts. But where are the facts to show that there exists any reasonable hardship at all? The facts really are all the other way; up to this time seven M. B.'s have gone up for the B. A. examination, and of these five have come out successful, a result that by no means justifies the use of the epithet hard, with reference to the B. A. examination. To my knowledge some of the M. B.'s have passed the B. A. examination in six months' time and with marked distinction.

In spite of this alleged hardship, it is significant that there are no fewer than 16 B. A.'s out of 153 M. B.'s (or over 10 per cent.) in our University (excluding those who are M. D.'s) who have not chosen to go up for their M. D.

In one sense, gentlemen, every examination is a hardship. You will decide if it will not be a greater hardship for us to lose the high repute of this University—whether we gain more or lose by retaining an advanced preliminary qualification in a medical student. The science of medicine is a daily growing subject, and at the present time its advanced books and publications assume a decent knowledge of (1) Mechanics, (2) Hydrostatics, (3) Physics, (4) Psychology and (5) the Natural Sciences, most of which subjects enter into the University curriculum for the first time at the B. A. stage. It strikes me therefore as most important that, if not for our L. M. S. and our M. B. (where we are hampered by the peculiar circumstances in which our students are placed from enforcing a high standard), for the M. D. at least the preliminary qualification of B. A. or some other suitable standard should be retained.

Nor could we for one moment afford to overlook the fact that all our medical knowledge has to be acquired through the medium, I had almost said the barrier of a foreign language. A standard of English below the B. A. surely falls short of the competency expected in holders of higher degrees in any faculty. I do not think further that there will be a difference of opinion in the Senate on the admitted necessity of a high degree of general culture for those at least who are going to qualify for the highest standard in this University. That such a view has been held by our Faculty of Medicine in past years is evident from the proceedings of that body in 1881 when on the report of a Special Committee consisting of Dr. McLeod, Dr. D. D. Cunningham, Dr. R. Harvey and the late lamented Dr. Tamiz Khan, they adopted either the B. A. or at least the F. A. with Latin for a second language as the necessary preliminary qualification for the M. B. on the ground as they put it that our degrees should "constitute a token of better culture, wider education and more extensive knowledge."

There can be traced a traditional recognition of this principle in the acts of the early framers of the rules and regulations of the three Indian Universities, who all made the B. A. a sine qua non for admission to the M.A., D.L., M.E., and M.D. This was also upheld by the Court of Directors and our early Chancellors who observed (in 1858)—"we approve of the general principle on which they were framed and specially the requirement of a degree in Arts as a test of the possession of a good general education for the candidates for degrees in Law and the higher degrees in Engineering and Medicine." (Minutes 1858).

I am aware that there has been a modification in this University in one Faculty of the rule. I trust, however, that in the vital question of our most distinguished qualification in a science which deal with life and death, we shall see the wisdom of retaining the existing or an equally efficient standard.

One word in conclusion in support of the motion which stands against my name.

I propose to have an alternative examination including—

- (1) English.
- (2) Mental Physiology.
- (3) Physiological Physics.

First as to English.—Enough has already been said as to the necessity of an advanced knowledge in English for Medical graduates. In the peculiar circumstances of India this is all-important. A compulsory English course could not be dispensed with even for the degree of B. Sc., proposed by Sir Alfred Croft in 1881. Before commencing legal study it is incumbent upon our students to pass the B. A. I have therefore considered an advanced course in English an indispensable subject in the alternative course.

Next as to Mental Physiology.—This is highly important and cannot be overlooked. It is a compulsory subject in not only the M. D. but also in the M. B. of the University of London. The Physiology of the Brain, I need hardly point out, is one of the most important of medical studies, and I am sorry to say the most neglected here. This ought to be obviated. As to Physics we have seen that in all the British Universities it forms a subject of an independent paper and an independent practical examination in the P. S. examination, whereas in Calcutta we only have one or two chance questions on Physics in the Chemistry paper. The matter in my opinion is one calling for assimilation to British standards. One department of it is essentially important to medical men, and I have accordingly included Physiological Physics in the proposed course.

When we find Oxford and Dublin insisting upon the B. A., London requiring a more difficult examination, or Cambridge insisting upon her Previous examination in two parts, it ought to be quite clear that British Universities, as a rule, require a high standard of general culture preliminary to the graduation in medicine.

Surgeon-Colonel Harvey said he had no intention of raising his voice on the subject, but for the fact of his name having been mentioned in connection with the Committee of 1882. That Committee recommended that M. B. candidates should have to pass the B. A. or the Entrance with Latin, the object being to differentiate the L. M. S. examination from the M. B. diploma, the two being practically the same. The Senate would have nothing to do with that. His opinion upon the point was this : that if the B. A. examination was not required for the M. B., it was not required for the M. D. degree. It was not possible for men who had an M. B.

to go back upon their collegiate career and work up for a special examination after they had once embarked upon medical work. A man professionally qualified ought to be able to go on to the highest rank.

Babu Herambachandra Maitra seconded the amendment. He said it was quite clear that, in spite of all that had been said by Dr. McConnell, his proposal amounted to a lowering of the value of the M. D. degree. It had been maintained that the extremely small number of M. D.'s in this University was owing to the fact that candidates for that degree were required to pass the B. A. examination was this true? If so, why were there so few D. L.'s while there were so many B. L.'s? That the winners of the highest degrees were so small in number, must be accounted for by the mournful fact dwelt upon by the learned Vice-Chancellor in his address at the last Convocation, namely, the general absence of a love of culture among our graduates. It had been said that candidates for a doctorate degree, were compelled by the obstacles placed in their way by this University, to proceed to Europe to study medicine there. Was it more difficult to pass the B. A. examination of the local University than to undertake a journey to Europe? Dr. McConnell had himself said that most medical students, as soon as they had passed the L. M. S. or M. B. examination, were eager to earn their livelihood and to enter Government service. Did not that circumstance explain very well why this University had so few M. D.'s? That the passing of the B. A. examination was of real service to those who studied medicine, was shown by the fact that a very large proportion of those students of the Medical College who had obtained the B. A. degree, had a very successful College career. (Here the speaker read out certain figures from a paper before him). It should be borne in mind that the M. D. degree was not essential to professional success. There were L. M. S.'s in Calcutta who had a larger practice than M. D.'s. It could not be said, therefore, that those who deserved to succeed in the profession, could not succeed as they were prevented from winning the highest medical degree. The degree was meant to be a mark of high academical culture, and it should not be lowered from any of those considerations which had been urged in favour of such a course. The most important and interesting aspect of a profession was that wherein it came in contact with the generality of human affairs, and an ideal physician needed, not a high degree of professional knowledge alone, but also some knowledge of poetry and philosophy. As to the production of a thesis, they must remember it would be written at home.

The Vice-Chancellor said it would be better if this line of argument was not pursued.

Babu Heramba Chandra Maitra, resuming, said that a thesis written at home would not indicate ready knowledge like an examination. And then, who would examine the thesis? Not Arts examiners, but doctors; and from the tendency of opinions expressed by medical men at this meeting, he was afraid they would be satisfied with a low level of general culture. As to Dr. Harvey's position, that while he would not object to the general qualification being raised for M. B.'s and M. D.'s alike, he held that the higher preliminary qualification for M. D.'s should be done away with, he would leave it to the gentlemen of the Senate to reconcile such conflicting views as they best could. He would conclude by repeating what he had begun with, that, in spite of all the specious arguments brought forward by the mover and Dr. Harvey in support of the proposed change, it was distinctly in favour of lowering the standard and not raising it.

Mr. Rowe, speaking as an expert, said he had been 25 years engaged in examining and teaching in the University, and he felt no hesitation in saying that the standard in English had been considerably raised within those 25 years. The B. A. standard of 25 years ago represented the F. A. standard of to-day, and therefore men who passed the F. A. to-day were well qualified to admission to the M. D. degree. He was, therefore, in favour of the proposed change in the Regulations.

The Vice-Chancellor said that all that was necessary on both sides had been said, and he would now put the question to the vote. He would first put to the vote the original motion that clause (a) be omitted. If this was carried, the amendment fell to the ground. If it was lost the amendment could then be put. He might add that if the original motion was carried, he had received private intimation from Dr. McConnell of his intention to propose that M. B. candidates should not be entitled to the M. D. degree without the production of a thesis.

The original motion was then put to the meeting and carried, 42 voting for and 12 against it.

Surgeon Lieut.-Col. McConnell moved that the following words be substituted for the word "can" in para. 2 of the Regulations for the M. D. degree (page 63, Calendar for 1894):—

"Shall produce a thesis approved by the President of the Faculty of Medicine for the time being on some subject connected with medical science, and shall also."

Babu Debendranath Ray seconded the motion, which was carried.

14. The Vice-Chancellor said that the next item had reference to the failed B. L. candidates. The resolution passed by the Senate at their meeting held on the 24th of February last, viz.: 'That the Senate recommend that the Syndicate direct the Board of Examiners to revise the results of the last B. L. examination with reference to Rule 3 printed at page 130 of the Calendar for 1893 was referred by the Syndicate to the Board of Examiners on which the Board passed the following resolution :—

'That the Board regret that they do not see their way to revise the results of the last B. L. examination.'

So far therefore the matter had come to an end. Reference had been made to the Examiners, who had declined to alter their results. It was at the same time open to the members of the Senate to make any motion in connection with this subject. He had received a notice from the Rev. Fr. Lafont of his intention to move the following :—

'As the resolution arrived at by the Board of Examiners in Law, on the order of the Senate, dated 24th of February last, practically ignores the same, the Registrar be empowered to give effect to this order and revise the list of passed B. L. candidates in accordance with Rule 3, page 130 of the Calendar for 1893.'

He would now state what he conceived the position to be, in order to concentrate and limit discussion. As he understood the Act of Incorporation, he must say that when the notice of this motion was sent to the Registrar, he had considerable doubt whether he ought to lay it before the Senate, and for these reasons, Section 8 of the Act gave general powers of control to the Senate in regard to the holding of examinations and the grant of degrees. The following sections 11, 12, 13 and 14 defined and restricted these powers, and the particular section 14 transferred to and vested in the examiners the duty and the right of declaring what candidates were qualified for degrees. As he understood the Act, therefore, the duty of declaring what candidates were qualified, had been delegated to the Examiners, and could not be resumed by the Senate. That is to say, in this University, as in all other Universities in the world, it rested with the examiners, and with them only, to declare whether candidates submitted to their judgment had or had not passed. If that was so, it followed that no power upon earth short of an amending Act of the Legislature, to which retrospective effect would have to be given, could confer the degree upon candidates whom the examiners had declared not entitled to it. If this position was correct, it seemed to him that he ought not to put before the Senate a motion which would invite the Senate to adopt a course in direct violation of the Act of Incorporation. But on further consideration he decided that the question should come before the Senate, because he did not think it right to trust to his own interpretation of the Act in this matter, especially as he was aware that another interpretation has been promulgated. He, therefore, submitted the question to the Senate, in the full confidence that they would not pass any resolution which they were unable and unauthorised to carry into effect. He should mention that a letter had been addressed to the Registrar by one of the examiners. It was a somewhat puzzling letter to him, but he would read it without further comment. It was as follows :—

• TO THE REGISTRAR, CALCUTTA UNIVERSITY,

Dated April 20th, 1894.

SIR,

IN connection with the note addressed to you by the majority of the Board of Examiners for the last B. L. examination at their last meeting, I have the honour to request that, in the event of the question coming up again before the Senate, you will be kind enough to bring to the notice of its learned members, that I did not take any part in preparing the said note, and that in signing it I meant only to adopt the decision of the majority and not the grounds on which they based it. My individual opinion was and still is, that quite apart from all technical questions, the 71 candidates who satisfied the requirements of Rule No. 3 as printed at p. 130 of the Calendar for 1893, and have been plucked under the revised rules, have a real grievance for which they may reasonably be held entitled to the indulgence which they pray for. As in fact they have been held entitled to such favour by the Senate, I am further of opinion, that if only for the sake of that respect which is due to that learned body, and no matter what view may be taken of its legal powers, it would have been more satisfactory if we could see our way to give effect to its recommendation. I made these observations at the meeting of the Board, and I beg leave to place them on record in order that my action may not be misunderstood. That the plucked candidates may not be unduly prejudiced, I beg leave also to state that I did not know anything about the revised rules before they were communicated to me by your letter of the 11th December last.

Yours faithfully,

(Sd.) JOGENDRANATH BHATTACHARYYA.

The examiner said he "meant to adopt the decision of the majority and not the grounds upon which they based it." The decision of the majority was this:—"We are emphatically of opinion that these candidates are not worthy of being admitted to the degree." That was the only important point and on that point the writer appeared to be in full agreement with his colleagues.

The Rev. Fr. Lafont said he did not take upon himself to solve the problem which the Vice-Chancellor had put before the meeting as to the legality of his proposal being admitted or not before the Senate, as he hoped this question would be considered by men who understood the law better than he did. But what he understood was common sense, and the matter presented itself to him thus. At the meeting of the Senate held on the 24th February, the Senate came by a majority—he did not say a vast majority—but by a decided majority after a lengthened discussion, to the following resolution:—"That the Senate recommend the Syndicate to direct the Board of Examiners to revise the results of the last B. L. degree examinations." If the resolution had stopped there he could perfectly well understand members accepting the result arrived at by the Board of Examiners: and he would never have seconded such a resolution, for he would consider it offensive to the Examiners to ask them to reconsider their allotment of marks, but the resolution of the Senate proceeded to say:—"With reference to Rule 3 printed at page 130 of the Calendar for 1893." Here in the light of that part of the resolution he could not possibly accept the resolution arrived at by the examiners. To the mover and seconder of the resolution and to the minds of all who voted here, the resolution meant this simply: that with due deference and respect to the Board of Examiners, the Senate required them to take notice that, as they passed the candidates on the mistaken notion that 400 were the pass marks, they were asked to revise the list of passed candidates on the assumption, which was the true one, that the pass marks were 300. They never asked the examiners in law to revise their marks. But the function they deputed to them was merely a ministerial function, namely that having received the rules for their guidance in conducting this examination, they were reminded as to the rule which was applicable to the case, viz., Rule 3 of page 130 of the Calendar, 1893, and were requested to alter the list of passed candidates accordingly.

It had been very clearly and distinctly, decided at the meeting that the minimum pass marks was 300 and not 400. All they asked these gentlemen was simply to be good enough to tell them who were the candidates according to their marks, who obtained 300 in the aggregate and 33 per cent. of the number of marks in each paper. Instead of answering this mandate sent to them, these examiners instead of doing what they were asked to do, went out of their way to state what they were not asked to state, that in their opinion these candidates were not worthy of the B. L. degree. They were never asked to do that, as the Senate settled that matter at the meeting themselves. The whole question was there, and it was that question which was decided by what he considered the Paramount Power. The Senate after examining the question thoroughly, declared that owing to a mistake which was made in the Calendar for 1893, 300 would do for this occasion in the aggregate and they issued a recommendation to the Syndicate to direct the examiners to revise these lists in the light of that rule 3 printed at page 130. The Examiners did nothing of the sort, but simply told the Senate that they did not see their way to revising their results. He thought it was clear, the matter has been decided in the way he had indicated. What he considered an order was sent through the proper channel. He considered that the examiners had "snubbed" the Senate and they might as well resign or cease to exist and allow the University work to be carried on by the Board of Examiners. He should only make one more remark. A great deal had been said about lowering the standard, if this was allowed. If the standard was to be lowered let it be lowered, as he preferred that to injustice being done. But he did not consider that the standard was being lowered, because instead of six papers, these candidates had managed to pass in eight. Therefore it showed very clearly that this examination was a great deal more searching than one with only six papers. He asked them to consider seriously what he had said, and not allow themselves to be snubbed by the B. L. Board of Examiners. He would therefore move :—

That as the resolution arrived at by the Board of Examiner in Law, on the order of the Senate, dated 24th of February last, practically ignores the same, the Registrar be empowered to give effect to this order and revise the list of passed B. L. candidates in accordance with Rule 3, page 130 of the Calendar for 1893.

The Hon. Mr. Justice Trevelyan said he thought it was his duty to say a word or two on one of the matters connected with the motion before the meeting. They were not all of them lawyers, but he as a lawyer would like to say what view he took with reference to the section of the Act which was binding upon them. It seemed to him that they were not sitting there to consider whether particular individuals were to be declared as having passed. Their hands, it appeared to him, were tied by the wording of the section. He thought many of them would agree with him that if they owed obligation to any one they owed it to the members of the Board of Examiners for having declined to do anything in revising the lists, for when the Senate came to see the section of the Act and attempted to do what the Rev. Fr. Lafont wished them to do, on the ground of giving these men a possible means of livelihood, the result would be to make themselves the laughing stock of the whole civilised world, or at any rate the laughing stock of every University. As a matter of fact he believed that the Vice-Chancellor would be unable to sign these certificates under these circumstances, and moreover any body of persons who now recognised the B. L.'s might find a difficulty in recognising any certificates granted under these circumstances. He had considered the matter very carefully and the wording of the section, and he did not think that any other interpretation than the one he had placed upon it would be given to it by any one whether a lawyer or a layman.

The wording of the section was distinct, the persons "who were declared by the examiners to be deemed entitled to the certificates which were to be signed by the Vice-Chancellor." It followed the rule of construction which all had to recognise, that this excluded all who had failed in passing the test prescribed. Therefore it followed that if the examiners did not declare a person qualified to hold the degree, neither the Chancellor nor the Vice-Chancellor had the power under that section to give the certificate. If they made the Senate a Court of Appeal from the decision of examiners, they would completely destroy the whole of the authority of teachers, and any confidence which was reposed in them. It was a thing unheard of in the affairs of any English University.

Possibly the Senate would order another examination to be held. But he did desire to ask them to hesitate before putting themselves forward as entitled to grant a degree regardless of the opinion expressed by the Examiners.

Mr. Manomohan Ghose said that as the mover of the original resolution to which effect had not been given by the Board of Examiners, he must in the first place express his very great regret that the matter should have come up once more for discussion, and that there should be any necessity for expressing any opinion regarding the powers of the Senate to revise the proceedings of the Syndicate or of the Examiners. On the previous occasion he had carefully abstained from raising or discussing the legal questions involved, as he thought nothing should be said or done which was in the least calculated to cause any sort of friction between the Senate and the Syndicate. As, however, much had been said regarding the true meaning of the original resolution, which on his motion had been carried on the previous occasion, and as it had been clearly misunderstood by the Board of Examiners, he now felt bound to explain what had been intended, especially as certain speakers had interpreted the law on the subject in a manner with which he was sorry he could not see his way to agree. He deeply regretted that the Board of Examiners had, by their action, forced upon the Senate the discussion of questions which he was most anxious to avoid. The Vice-Chancellor had started an important question of law, and his view had been supported by no less an authority than Mr. Justice Trevelyan. It might seem presumptuous on his (the speaker's) part to question the soundness of an opinion on a question of law, expressed by so high an authority, but the speaker did not feel that degree of hesitation in differing from Mr. Justice Trevelyan which he would have felt if that learned Judge had given an opinion on the question after hearing argument on both sides ; for he knew no Judge on the Bench more anxious to be convinced or to be set right, or more ready to change his opinion when once convinced the other way, than Mr Justice Trevelyan. The speaker would therefore appeal to Mr. Justice Trevelyan himself to consider whether there were not very strong and cogent reasons for coming to the conclusion that the view of the law propounded by the Vice-Chancellor, though at first sight supported by the words used in one particular section of the Act, is after all borne out by the terms of other sections of the Act to which attention had not been drawn by any speaker. If section 14 of the Act of incorporation, were to be read by itself, he would feel bound to agree with the Vice-Chancellor that the Board of Examiners had absolute discretion in the matter to make the requisite declaration, irrespective of any marks which they might have allotted to any candidate. But that section did not stand by itself. It had to be read by the light of what is contained in sections 8 and 11 which gave the Senate power to make Bye-Laws and Regulations touching " the conduct of the examinations " and to confer degrees in accordance with those Bye-Laws and Regulations. If no such Bye-Laws and Regulations had been framed defining or abridging the discretion of the Board of Examiners in any way, he, the speaker, would be the last person to say that the Examiners had not an absolute discretion in the matter. Only in that case the analogy between the powers of Examiners in the English Universities, and those belonging to the Calcutta University, so much relied upon by some of the speakers would have held good. But rightly or wrongly, wisely or unwisely this University had thought fit by express regulations, duly made under the Act, to fetter and abridge the discretion of the Examiners which but for those regulations would have been absolute, and therefore there was no analogy between the powers possessed by Examiners in other Universities and those under the Calcutta University. If rules or regulations were duly made, he contended that effect must be given to them so long as they were not repealed or abrogated. Now according to Rule 3 printed at page 130 of the Calendar for 1893, the absolute discretion of the Board of Examiners to pass any candidate they liked, was taken away, and it was enacted that 300 marks in the aggregate and 33 per cent. in each paper should be the qualifying standard for a second class degree. According to this rule the Examiners were bound to declare a candidate qualified, who had attained that standard. If it were otherwise, a candidate might arbitrarily be declared qualified although he had failed to attain the requisite number of marks. Such a result could not have been possibly intended. In this view of the matter, he contended that after marks had been once allotted, the Examiners had no discretion in the matter, but had to perform a mere clerical or ministerial function, and if they failed to discharge that function correctly, the Syndicate or the Senate had perfect power to set them right. As, however, the Examiners had misunderstood the meaning of the original resolution, the proper course for the Senate was to set them right on this point and to call upon the Board to do that which they would have probably done but for the misunderstanding. As regards the question whether the candidates had any real grievance, he would simply observe that it had not been alleged that any one of these 71 candidates were aware of what had been intended by the Syndicate. In the absence of such evidence of knowledge on the part of these particular candidates, it would not be right to hold that they ought to suffer because other persons probably knew what had been intended.

Mr. Justice Trevelyan had contended that under section 14 of the Act the Examiners had to make the declaration. Mr. Ghose did not dissent from this view, but the declaration must be made subject to existing rules and regulations made under section 8. He would, therefore, in order to meet the technical requirements of section 14 move the following amendment:—"That the original Resolution of the 24th February be sent back to the Board of Examiners, with an intimation that in the opinion of the Senate, after the allotment of marks there was no discretion left to the Examiners but that they are bound to give effect to Rule 3 printed at page 130 of the Calendar for 1893, and to declare the 71 candidates who had attained the standard laid down therein, as entitled to the B. L. degree in the 2nd Division."

The Rev. Fr. Lafont here withdrew his motion in favour of the amendment just proposed.

Mr. C. R. Wilson said that they had heard a great deal about the legal aspect of the question, but he should like to say a word as to the common-sense aspect. What, then, were the examiners appointed to do? Apparently, according to the mover of the motion, they were appointed to assign marks. In Mr. Wilson's opinion, they were appointed to do no such thing. According to the Act of Incorporation they were appointed to declare the names of the candidates whom they deemed entitled to the degree, and that was what he had been doing. In place of marks, he might have used symbols, but in the case of the University of Calcutta he was told to indicate his opinion by means of marks. He had been told that the discretion of the examiners had been fettered; but how was his discretion fettered? No one could force him against his discretion to give pass marks. He only passed those who he thought ought to pass, and he did so by assigning certain marks. It was therefore clear that rules for assigning marks did not in any way limit the discretion of an examiner.

Mr. Rowe was in entire accord with the remarks which had fallen from the last speaker in reference to the duties of examiners.

Mr. Gilliland moved as an amendment: "That a supplementary B. L. examination of the 71 B. L. candidates who obtained 300 marks in the aggregate and 33 per cent. be held, without a fee, under the existing rules, 1894, at such time as the Syndicate shall appoint."

Mr. Rowe seconded this amendment, which, on being put to the meeting, was carried by 29 to 24.

The amendment, which had thus become the substantive motion, was put to the vote and carried, 38 voting for, and 4 against it.

Owing to the lateness of the hour, the remainder of the business on the agenda paper was adjourned to a future meeting.

" No. 280.

FROM

THE PRINCIPAL, PATNA COLLEGE,

TO

THE REGISTRAR, CALCUTTA UNIVERSITY.

Dated Bankipore, the 22nd July, 1893.

SIR,

I have the honour to submit for the consideration of the Syndicate a certain proposal that has a reference to candidates who have failed to pass the B. A. Examination. I make here no corresponding proposal for failed F. A. students, I limit my arguments to the case of failed B. A. students. It will possibly be found that failed F. A. students may, with advantage, receive the same boon as I advocate for B. A. candidates. But I leave that question quite open. On the other hand, I do not imagine that the method which I suggest should be applied also to Entrance candidates.

2. Some twenty years ago there was a strong desire in students to get into any Examination as quickly as possible. Certain private schools flourished by encouraging this desire. Students were promoted from class to class without any real reference to their knowledge. An Entrance class of such a school would contain not fewer students than did all the other classes put together. A letter of mine describing such schools in their then condition was printed by the University and circulated among members of the Senate.

3. The wish to appear as quickly as possible in the examination was not confined to Entrance candidates. All the students of a College had the same aspirations. If a first-year student was utterly unfit for promotion to the second-year class, and if he was detained in that class, he always considered himself to be very severely punished. Frequently he left the College and gained admission to some other College, where rules were not so unbending.

4. Now in the last year or two a change has come over the F. A. and B. A. students. To this change the correspondence files in the office of the Registrar can bear effective witness.

A College prepares for the Registrar the names of all those students whom it proposes as candidates for the next F. A. or B. A. examination. But after this list has been prepared, certain students appear to change their minds. Probably the change is in some cases only apparent. Probably some of those students, whose names were in the College list and who did not appear in the Examination, had never intended so to appear. In other cases, no doubt, a student does really alter his plan. Some unexpected illness or some unexpected family trouble causes him to forego his right of appearing. Well, we thus have two groups of students who might have appeared in the corresponding Examination, but who have not availed themselves of their power of appearing.

5. After the Examination is over, a student of either group will address his College Principal. He will remind him that he (the student) had formally been accepted by the College as an eligible candidate. He will then state that he was unable to avail himself of the privilege of appearing in the Examination. He, therefore, desires that this privilege be extended so as to cover the next Examination. Not only so, but he desires to be excused for any further attendance at lectures in any College.

Sometimes he confines himself to stating his real wish which is that the Registrar should excuse him from the obligation to pay any more fees to a College. Thereupon the College advise him that a College fee is a College matter with which the Registrar does not deal.

On the other hand, permission to appear in another Examination is an University matter with which a College does not deal. So the College instructs the student how his letter may be amended. Thus amended, if amendment had been needed, the letter asks the Registrar to allow the applicant to appear in the next Examination without further certificates from a College. To this request, the Registrar uniformly accedes.

Just before any Examination commences, each student settles in his own mind whether he will or will not appear in that examination. He knows that he virtually holds what we may call a season ticket, which will admit him not only to the Examination that is impending, but to its successors in the years that will follow.

6. Now suppose that X and Y are two students. This letter is restricted to the case of the B. A. Examination, therefore, X and Y are supposed to have duly qualified for appearance in the next B. A. Examination. X decides to enter the Examination. He passes in all subjects but one. As to those subjects in which he passes, he shows more than what we may call a third class quality knowledge. But he fails in one subject, and he fails sufficiently to lose his chance of grace marks. Accordingly his name is entered in the cross list which is sent by and by to his College.

7. Now let us take the case of Y. He may be a student much inferior to X in general knowledge. Had he entered the Examination, he might have failed in several subjects. Y applies for permission to appear in a future Examination without further College attendance. His request is granted. If X were to apply for the same privilege, his request would be refused. Why should such a difference be made? X has really done as much as Y has done in the way of getting himself qualified. If there is any difference between X and Y, the difference seems rather in favour of X. I do not advocate any restriction of the privilege accorded to Y. But I venture to hope that the University will see their way to according that same privilege to X.

8. At present X is compelled to attend a new course of lectures. He is not, however, expected to attend a new full two years' course. Nor is he even expected to attend for one full year. But an attendance of six months is exacted. Thus he joins a new fourth-year class at the beginning of the session, and he leaves before the session is finished. Or he joins so late as to end up with the class. Or he is located in the middle of the year and he shows a fringe of non-attendance fore and aft. If we look into that six months' rule, we shall probably discover that it was imported from another regime of University discipline.

9. Sometimes a student used to read in some one school for the Entrance Examination. Just before the Examination began, he was induced to migrate to some less respectable school which desired to make a show in the Entrance class lists. This dishonest practice the University strove to abolish. It required a student to have been for a certain period continuously in one school up to the date of the Entrance examination. Probably such a forced connection of a certain student with a certain institution suggested the six months' rule for the F. A. and B. A. failed candidates.

It is highly desirable that a student who has read for nearly two years in one College should not migrate to another College just before his Examination has commenced. But when a student has actually attended one College for two years, and has actually appeared in the corresponding Examination, or has attended various Colleges and has appeared in the Examination, then I suggest that he be troubled with no further obligations in the way of College attendance.

10. If he likes to attend a College, well and good. He will there pay the usual monthly fee. He will enter when he likes. He will leave when he likes. Or perhaps he will only attend lectures on certain subjects, and will never attend lectures on other subjects. Why should not these privileges be granted to him? Say, for example, that his English and his Mathematics are good, but his Persian or his Sanskrit is defective. Then he might devote a good deal of time to his Persian or his Sanskrit, while as to the other subjects he will read them by himself so as to keep his knowledge up to the mark. Probably some of his friends, who are in a College will supply him with notes which they have freshly received from their Lecturers. But into these details there is no need to inquire. Let then a student who has failed in one B. A. Examination be allowed the same privilege as is granted to another student who has not so much as appeared in any previous B. A. Examination."

" FROM

H. R. JAMES, Esq.

Professor, Patna College,

TO

W. GRIFFITHS, Esq.,

Registrar, Calcutta University.

Dated Bankipore, the 27th July, 1893.

SIR,

I SHOULD like to submit to your consideration some objections which I have to suggest against the rule (in No. 5 of the Regulation for the B. A. Examination, Calendar, p. 33,) by which candidates who have failed to pass the B. A. Examination are required, as a condition of appearing at any subsequent Examination for that degree, to attend a certain percentage of College lectures in each of the subjects in which they are to be examined.

The rule seems to me to be altogether unnecessary because these students must have all passed through the ordinary four years' course, and may be presumed to have received such benefit as is to be expected from the regular discipline of the College.

But more than this it is actually unreasonable to compel them to attend lectures of the latter half of a College course extended over two years and designed for students whose needs and circumstances are different, that is to say for the new fourth-year class, who are going over the subject for the first time. At all events, I find considerable inconvenience arising from this cause, in regard to my own lectures in the Ethics and Psychology of the A course. Every year the new fourth-year class receives a considerable accession of students who have been unsuccessful in the recent B. A. Examination. I do not know what to do with these students. They have all comparatively recently listened to my explanation and taken down my notes, and anything further I could do for them would consist rather of supplementary lectures than a repetition of the former course. But I cannot alter the lectures in their interest, for the new fourth-year class, the proper class of the year, has the prior claim. Consequently I feel the presence of these "failed" students to be unprofitable for themselves and an inconvenience to me. Yet I cannot dispense with their attendance, for the University rule insists upon it.

When further it is considered that some of these candidates may have failed in only one subject, or at all events, passed in some particular subject, I think there must be allowed to be an actual hardship, especially as it is possible that such a student may require extra time for the subject or subjects in which he is weak.

• A simple remedy would be to do away with this requirement altogether. A failed student would then be free to rejoin a College, or not at his own discretion, and in the event of rejoining and paying the usual fees to attend lectures in one or more subjects as he found most to his advantage. This would, in my opinion, be both a more liberal policy towards students and more expedient for the Colleges. It would also be found to be warranted, I believe, by the practice of other Universities.

Failing the remission of this requirement, I would urge that there are cases where the rule works hardly requiring special consideration. There is obviously also a great difference between English where the text-books change partially every year and subjects like Philosophy which, from year to year, remain the same."

A. EWBANK.

Babu Syamacharan Ganguli moved that in para. 5 of the Regulations for the B. A. Examination (page 34 of the University Calendar for 1894) the words "provided he produces a certificate from the head of an affiliated Institution, showing that his name has been on the rolls of that Institution for six Calendar months since the date of the last Examination to which he was admitted, and that he has attended 66 per cent. of the lectures delivered in the institution during those six months in each of the subjects in which he is to be examined" together with the foot-note be omitted.

Babu Saradacharan Mitra seconded the motion.

Dr. Asutosh Mukhopadhyay supported the motion.

Mr. C. R. Wilson spoke in support of the motion and Babu Herambachandra Maitra spoke against it.

The Hon'ble Mr. Justice Gooroo Dass Banerjee moved the following amendment:—

"That the discussion of this question be postponed and the heads of Institutions affiliated up to the B. A. standard be requested to favour the Faculty of Arts with information as to what arrangements, if any, are made for the teaching of candidates plucked at the B. A. Examination who take admission to the fourth-year class, and to express their opinion generally upon the question now before the Faculty."

Babu Krishnabihari Sen seconded the amendment.

Babu Kalicharan Banerjee supported the original motion.

The Rev. A. P. Begg supported the amendment which was then put to the vote and carried “KING'S COLLEGE LODGE ;

Cambridge, 12th June, 1894.

To

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR OF THE UNIVERSITY OF CALCUTTA.

DEAR SIR,

THE period for which certain institutions, numbering 27 in all, affiliated to your University, were affiliated to the University of Cambridge, will expire on the 1st day of January, 1895, and the Council of the Senate have had under their consideration the desirability of continuing the affiliation in the present form. They have also received requests for affiliation from the Universities of Bombay and Madras which raise the like questions. The subject has been referred to the Affiliation Committee of the Council for further enquiry, with a view to discovering whether the affiliation of the Indian Universities cannot be effected in some simpler way, so as to avoid the necessity for affiliating the subordinate teaching institutions nominatim. The Committee are of opinion that in view of the Regulations already approved by the Senate for certain non-residential Universities, such as those of New Zealand and the Cape of Good Hope, it might be sufficient to ordain as follows :—

“The privileges of affiliation may be granted to any matriculated student of the University of Calcutta who has—

(1.) In accordance with the Regulations of that University studied for not less than two years at one or more Institutions for adult students affiliated up to the B. A. standard.

(2.) Passed the Entrance Examination and also passed in the First Division in the First Examination in Arts and passed in Honours in the Examination for Bachelor of Arts of that University : provided that in one of these Examinations or in some other Examination held by that University he has satisfied the Examiners in Latin.”

The Affiliation Committee would be glad to learn, as early as possible, the views of the Executive Body of your University on the above suggestion.

I am,

Yours very faithfully,

(Sd.) A. AUSTEN LEIGH,

Vice-Chancellor ”

RESOLVED—

That the following reply be sent to the Vice-Chancellor, Cambridge University :—

DEAR SIR,

I HAVE the pleasure of acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 12th June in which you inform me that the Affiliation Committee of the Council of the Senate of the University of Cambridge, have it in contemplation to effect the affiliation of Indian Universities in a simpler way than at present, in order to avoid the necessity for affiliating the subordinate teaching institutions nominatim. You ask for the opinion of the Executive Body of this University on the specific proposals that have been made with that object.

2. In reply I beg to inform you that I have laid these proposals before the Syndicate, and that in the inquiries and suggestions I express the views of that Body—

(a) We are of opinion that the privileges of Affiliation may advantageously be granted to individual students who satisfy certain prescribed conditions.

(b) The first condition specified in your letter is approved.

(c) With regard to the second condition, * we beg to inquire whether the word “and” underlined in the margin has not been written in error for “or.” You will observe that in the existing Regulations the same qualifications (in addition to that of passing the Entrance Examination) are specified, and are made alternative. Further, that the requirement of passing the B. A. Examination, which takes place four years after matriculation, is inconsistent with the conditions that a matriculated student will be eligible for affiliation after two years’ study.

(d) With regard to the proviso attached to the second condition, we beg to point out that to require a student to have passed in Latin will practically debar from the privileges of affiliation all but a small minority of our students. This will be evident from the following statement. At the Entrance Examination in 1894, 4,274 candidates took up an Oriental classic (Sanskrit, Arabic, or Persian), and only 232 took Latin. At the First Examination in Arts, 2,270 took up an Oriental classic and only 57 took Latin. At the B. A. Examination, out of 1,046 candidates on the Literature side, only 8 took Latin. Latin, in fact is only taken up, with rare exceptions, by European and Eurasian students, and the effect of the proviso would be to deny the advantages of affiliation to all our Hindu and Mahomedan students, who form the great majority of those who matriculate. We conceive that this is not the intention of your Committee; and we would beg to suggest for your consideration the substitution of the words “Latin or an Oriental classic” for “Latin.”

* Passed the Entrance Examination and also passed in the first division in the First Examination in Arts and passed in Honours in the Examination for Bachelor of Arts of that University.

3. We would finally inquire whether we are right in assuming that the privileges of affiliation remain the same as at present; namely, exemption from the previous Examination and the counting of three additional terms.

117. Read a memorandum from Mr. A. Pedler, F.R.S., and Dr. P. K. Ray, on the position of Science in the scheme of University education in Bengal and the necessity of instituting degrees in Science.

RESOLVED—

That the memorandum be laid before the Faculty of Arts.

118. The Registrar reported that Mr. A. E. Gough having declined to set papers this year owing to ill health, he had, in anticipation of the orders of the Syndicate, asked Mr. M. J. White, M.A., to set papers in English for the next B. A. and M. A. Examinations.

RESOLVED—

That the action of the Registrar be approved.

119. The Registrar enquired whether the provisions of the F. A. and the B. A. Regulations would be fulfilled, if an unsuccessful candidate joins a College six months before the commencement of the Examination.

RESOLVED—

That a circular be issued to the heads of affiliated Institutions, intimating that the provisions in paras. 4 and 5 of the F. A. and B. A. Regulations respectively, requiring unsuccessful candidates to prosecute a further course of study for six months in an affiliated Institution will be fulfilled, if an unsuccessful candidate joins a College six months before the date fixed for the commencement of the Examination.

120. Read a letter from Babu Ramcharan Mitra, M.A., suggesting that Bengali should be included in the list of second languages prescribed for the F. A. Examination.

RESOLVED—

That the letter be laid before the Faculty of Arts.

121. Read a letter from Dr. Asutosh Mukhopadhyay, submitting the following propositions for the consideration of the Syndicate:—

(A). "That in the Rules for the First Examination in Arts (Calendar for 1894, p. 132), the following be added to paragraph 4:—

'In one of the papers in English, some subject for original composition shall be set; 25 marks will be assigned to this question.'

(B). "That in the Rules for the B. A. Examination (Calendar for 1894, p. 132), the following be added to paragraph 3:—

'In English in one of the Pass papers, some subject for original composition shall be set; 50 marks will be assigned to this question.'

'In the fourth Honour paper in English, some subject for original composition shall be set; 50 marks will be assigned to this question.'

RESOLVED—

That the letter be laid before the Faculty of Arts with the recommendation that the proposals therein contained be adopted.

122. Read a letter from Dr. Asutosh Mukhopadhyay, requesting that the following propositions may be submitted to the Syndicate for consideration:—

(A). That in paragraph 7 of the B. A. Regulations, under the heading "B. II. Mathematics" (Calendar for 1894, p. 36), the words "Descriptive Astronomy" be added.

(B). That with a view to induce students to acquire an intelligent knowledge of the principles of the Mathematical subjects, and to make room for the study of Astronomy without throwing additional burden on them, the following be added to paragraph 3 of the rules relating to the B. A. Examination (Calendar for 1894, p. 133):—

"In the Pass papers in Mathematics, three-fifths of the marks shall be assigned to book work, and two-fifths to simple riders.

"In the Honour papers in Mathematics, one-half of the marks shall be assigned to book work and the other half to easy riders and problems."

RESOLVED—

That the letter be laid before the Faculty of Arts

with the recommendation that the proposal therein contained be adopted.

123. The Registrar laid before the Syndicate a copy of the Judgment delivered by the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Sale in discharging the Rule calling on the University to show cause why a candidate at the B. L. Examination of 1893 who obtained 33 per cent. in each paper and 300 in the aggregate shall not be allowed to proceed to the B. L. degree.

ORDERED—

To be recorded.

124. The Registrar laid before the Syndicate for orders the communications he had received from Maulavi Abul Khair Muhammad Siddiq and Shams-ul-Ulama Ahmad and Shams-ul-Ulama Shaikh Mahmud Gilani regarding the distribution of the papers in Arabic and Persian for the ensuing M. A. Examination.

RESOLVED—

That the Boards of Studies be requested to draw up rules for the distribution of the subjects amongst the papers set at the M. A. Examination in the different branches, and that the Syndicate must leave it to the Examiners or a majority of them to settle in what way the papers are to be distributed this year.

125. Read a letter from Mr. E. M. Wheeler, M.A., making certain suggestions with regard to the text-book in Latin prescribed for the Entrance Examinations in 1895 and 1896.

RESOLVED—

(i) That it is now too late to take any action for the Examination in 1895.

(ii) That the Board of Studies in Greek, Latin, French and German be requested to consider the question raised by Mr. Wheeler with reference to the text-book in Latin prescribed for the Entrance Examination of 1896.

126. The Registrar submitted a list of schools that had passed not more than 20 per cent. of the candidates sent up by them to the Entrance Examinations of the last three years.

149. The Faculty proceeded to elect a representative in the Syndicate in the place of Mr. Rowe whose seat had been declared vacant under paragraph 4 of the Bye-Laws relating to the Syndicate.

Dr. Asutosh Mukhopadhyay moved that the Rev. Dr. Hector be elected a representative in the Syndicate in the place of Mr. Rowe for the remainder of the current year.

Babu Kalicharan Banerjee seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.

150. Dr. Asutosh Mukhopadhyay moved that the following recommendations of the Syndicate be adopted, namely :—

(A) "That in the Rules for the First Examination in Arts (Calendar for 1894, p. 132), the following be added to paragraph 4 :—

In one of the papers in English, some subject for original composition shall be set ; 25 marks will be assigned to this question."

(B). "That in the Rules for the B. A. Examination (Calendar for 1894, p. 132), the following be added to paragraph 3 :—

In English in one of the pass papers, some subject for original composition shall be set ; 30 marks will be assigned to this question.

In the fourth honour paper in English, some subject for original composition shall be set ; 50 marks will be assigned to this question."

(C). "That with a view to enable students to devote more time to English composition than they do now, it is desirable to reduce the number of books usually prescribed in English for F. A. and B. A. students."

Babu Saradacharan Mitra seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.

151. Dr. Asutosh Mukhopadhyay moved that the following recommendations of the Syndicate, with the modifications set forth in clauses (C) and (D), be adopted, namely :—

(A). That in paragraph 7 of the B. A. Regulations, under the heading "B. II Mathematics," (Calendar for 1894, p. 36), the words "Descriptive Astronomy" be added.

(B). That with a view to induce students to acquire an intelligent knowledge of the principles of the Mathematical subjects, and to make room for the study of Astronomy without throwing additional burden on them, the following be added to paragraph 3 of the rules relating to the B. A. Examination (Calendar for 1894, p. 133) :—

"In the pass papers in Mathematics, three-fifths of the marks shall be assigned to book work, and two-fifths to simple riders.

In the honour papers in Mathematics, one-half of the marks shall be assigned to book work, and the other half to easy riders and problems."

(C). That the questions in Descriptive Astronomy be confined to book work

(D). That only the elementary parts of Descriptive Astronomy be included in the Course.

Mr. Zemin seconded the motion.

Babu Mahendranath Ray, the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Gooroo Dass Banerjee, Maulavi Muhammad Yousuff, Khan Bahadur, and the Rev. Mr. Ashton having spoken to the motion, Babu Saradacharan Mitra moved, as an amendment, that the question be referred to the Board of Studies in Mathematics for consideration and report.

The Rev. Mr. Begg seconded the amendment.

Babus Narendralal De and Gaurisankar De having spoken to the amendment, it was put to the vote and lost.

The Rev. Dr. Macdonald moved, as a further amendment, that for the word "Descriptive" in clauses (A) and (C), the word "Elementary" be substituted, and that clause (D) be omitted.

Babu Gaurisankar De seconded the amendment.

Mr. Percival and the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Gooroo Dass Banerjee having spoken to the amendment, it was put to the vote and lost.

The original motion was then put to the vote and carried.

152. Dr. Asutosh Mukhopadhyay moved :—

"That the following foot-note be added to the second sentence of the second paragraph and to the proviso as to attendance in the fourth sentence of the fourth paragraph of the F. A. Regulations, and to the second sentence of the second paragraph and to the proviso as to attendance in the fourth sentence of the fifth paragraph of the B. A. Regulations (Calendar for 1894, pp. 29, 30, 33, 34) :—

'The Syndicate have power to make exceptions to this rule.'"

The Hon'ble Mr. Justice Gooroo Dass Banerjee seconded the motion.

The Rev. Mr. Morrison, Maulavi Muhammad Yousuff, Khan Bahadur, and Babu Narendralal De having spoken to the motion, it was put to the vote and carried, 23 voting for it, and 3 against it.

153. The Faculty then proceeded to consider a letter from Babu Ramcharan Mitra, M.A., suggesting that Bengali should be included in the list of second languages prescribed for the F. A. Examination.

Mr. Abdur Rahman moved that the consideration of the letter be deferred.

Moulavi Muhammad Yousuff seconded the motion, which was carried.

154. The Faculty next proceeded to consider the following memorandum from Mr. A. Pedler, F. R. S., and Dr. P. K. Ray, on the position of Science in the scheme of University education in Bengal, and the necessity of instituting degrees in Science:—

“The object of the present memorandum is to point out certain defects which appear to exist in the courses of study laid down by the Calcutta University, and which have a prejudicial effect on the study of Science in Bengal. It is naturally to be expected that the arrangements for fostering the study of Science would be of a less perfect description than those for developing the study of Literature, &c., in the Calcutta University, for the inclusion of Science in the scheme of University education is of comparatively recent date even in England and in Europe, and of still more recent date in India. Besides too for many years there were no facilities at all in Bengal for the study of Science, and it is only within the last quarter of a century that such arrangements have been started in India, but even these have been developing rather slowly.

The changes in the University Regulations with the view of fostering the study of Science as a part of general education have also been few, and have only been agreed to by the Senate after considerable opposition. They may be briefly summarized as follows. At first Chemistry was introduced into the F. A. Examination as an alternative subject with Psychology. From about 1885 the subject of Elementary Physics was added as a permanent subject for the F. A. Examination, while Chemistry as an optional subject was excluded. Elementary Physics, however, was still more or less optional, as students were not required to obtain any minimum number of marks in the subject, and hence in a large number of cases students neglected to study it altogether. Again from 1891 Chemistry reappeared as a subject for the F. A. Examination. At the present time Elementary Physics has become a compulsory subject, as a student must obtain a small fixed minimum of marks to pass the examination, but Chemistry is still more or less of the nature of an optional subject as no minimum of marks is required to be obtained, and hence students as a rule pay little attention to the subject and many neglect it entirely. It would appear that the time has now come to fix a minimum number of passing marks in this subject so as to prevent this subject remaining one which is practically held in contempt by the students.

In the case of the Entrance Examination the progress from the view of scientific instruction may be said to have been conspicuous by its absence. A very small amount of Physical Geography is actually included in the course, but it will be remembered that the Senate has successively rejected Mr. Tawney's scheme for an alternative Entrance Examination, in which some subjects of a practical and scientific character were to be included, and more lately the Senate has rejected the proposals of Sir Alfred Croft to have some purely optional subjects of a Scientific and practical character added to the Entrance Examination. The Calcutta University as a body therefore appears to have decided that Science is not to be included in the Entrance Examination.

In the case of the B. A. and M. A. Examinations rather more progress has been made. The study of Science for the M. A. degree was rendered more thorough and effective by the introduction of practical examinations in 1885 for such subjects as Physical Science and Chemistry. In 1894, for the first time, Practical Chemistry (chemical analysis) has been a subject for examination for all the Honour students for the B. A. degree in B. Course, III. In the year 1881 (November 19th) the Senate instituted a degree of Bachelor of Science, but this portion of the regulations was rescinded in February 1882 (three months after!) as the course of study which had been prescribed for the B. Sc. degree had been shown to be most unsatisfactory in certain parts, as it did not require any real knowledge of any one science from a candidate for the degree.

It would now, however, appear that with the introduction of two science subjects in the F. A. Examination, and with the requirement of practical knowledge as tested by examination for some of the Honours degrees in Science for the B. A. and for the M. A. Examinations, the standard of Science teaching for the University examinations has improved greatly, and is very much higher than that which obtained some years since. Hence also the objections which formerly held good to the introduction of Science degrees do not obtain at the present time.

It may further be noticed that a considerable fresh impetus has been lately added to the thorough and practical study of Science (as well as in the Arts subjects) by the Regulations for the Premchand Roychand Studentship, which were recently sanctioned by the Senate, and by which the scholarship will not be tenable for more than two years out of the period of five years, unless the student gives proof that he has carried on during such two years some special investigation, original research or work in the subject in which the scholarship was awarded. The Regulations also contain the proviso that such work is to be carried on during the remaining three years or the scholarship will lapse.

Again an endowment for Scientific Research has been recently created by Sir Charles Elliott, which it is to be hoped is only the first of many such endowments, and one award has been made under it for the best out of seven investigations or essays in different branches of mathematics. It may be also remarked that for the present year the subject of the "Elliott Research Prize" is to be Natural History. It will be shown later on, that in this branch of Science the Calcutta University offers no encouragement for study or for taking degrees in it. It must be admitted that this forms a distinct blot on the present system of examination.

The prosecution of scientific study in Bengal has within the last few years been much facilitated by the foundation of the Indian Association for the cultivation of Science, and in the well equipped laboratories of this Institution much work may in the future be expected to be carried on.

During the last few years also many of the Colleges outside those under Government control have been making provision in the way of Laboratories, apparatus, &c., for the effective teaching of Science, practically as well as theoretically, and at the recent examination for the B. A. degree, candidates who have received practical scientific instruction in Chemistry have been sent up in the B. course, Honours subject III, from the following Colleges :—

Holkar College	Indore.
Presidency College	Calcutta
Lahore College	Lahore
Krishnagar College	Krishnagar
Ripon College	Calcutta
St. Xavier's College	Do.
City College	Do.
General Assembly's Institution	.	.	Do.
Hooghly College	Chinsurah

Showing that in all such Colleges, and probably in many more also, appliances exist for practical training in Science.

It may further be known that during the past few years considerable efforts have been made at various Government Colleges to improve the practical science teaching. And thus at the Presidency College, Calcutta, in the Physical Science section the laboratories have been improved and enlarged, and large supplies of expensive apparatus procured, so that at the present time instruction and experimentation of the highest class in this subject can be carried on, and the Presidency College Physical laboratories can now compare favourably with the laboratories in many large European cities. In the case of the Chemistry section of the Presidency College also an entirely new wing of large size has been recently added, and this is to be wholly devoted to Chemical work. The wing has been completed, and the fittings are also nearly ready, and it is to be hoped that excellent work will be done there in future years.

It may be added that a new professorship in Geology has recently been created by Government at the Presidency College, and that for the last two years systematic teaching in this subject has been carried on there.

It is clear therefore from this brief review that the appliances are ready in Calcutta, and parts of Bengal, &c., for the effective teaching of various branches of science both theoretically and practically, and it is the bounden duty of the Calcutta University to do its part in fostering this important branch of education, so that the fullest advantage may be taken of the facilities which are offered. Indeed if the Calcutta University does not do its utmost in this direction, it must come under the reproach of failing to foster the subjects on which the future material prosperity of India almost entirely depends, and of failing to carry out its own motto "The Advancement of Learning."

As an instance of the imperfect action of the present arrangements of the University curriculum in fostering science and scientific study, the case of Geology and Biology may be taken. These sciences are placed in the B. course for the B. A. degree as optional subjects. A candidate for the B. A. degree (B. course) must take up as compulsory subjects—

I.—English.

II.—Mathematics.

And one of the following optional subjects :—

III.—Physics and Chemistry.

IV.—Physiology and either Botany or Zoology.

V.—Geology and either Mineralogy or Physical Geography.

Of the three optional science subjects, two are essentially non-mathematical in their nature, and it is only the Physics section of Course III. (Physics and Chemistry) which requires a student to have a good knowledge of Mathematics to enable him to master it. On the other hand no one can study subject V of the B. course B. A. (Geology and say Mineralogy) without a knowledge of the two optional subjects III and IV, and no one can thoroughly study subject IV, (Physiology and either Botany or Zoology) without a good knowledge of III (Physics and Chemistry). Hence students who wish to take up IV and V, are seriously handicapped. They must take up Mathematics, for which perhaps they have no liking or aptitude, while they are unable to take up group III, which would be of great use to them, and enable them to more thoroughly understand their main subject, in which perhaps they might be taking up the Honours standard. It will be therefore admitted that the present arrangement actually drives the majority of students who take up the B. course in the B. A. Examination to take up group III, while it is also undoubted that all those students who do not feel themselves particularly strong in Mathematics, and yet would like to study science are compelled in self-defence to avoid the scientific subjects altogether, and to take up the A, or literature course for their B. A. degree. In view of the desirability of encouraging scientific studies amongst the natives of Bengal, and of giving them practical knowledge to enable them to develop the material resources of India, and of such facts as the encouragement given recently for the study of Geology, &c., by the appointment of a Professor of Geology at the Presidency College, and by the passing of the University regulations enabling a student to take up an Honours degree in Mining, Engineering, &c., the present arrangement appears to be a most serious defect in the Regulations and should be remedied.

The time has therefore now come when such defects as these might be removed, and the study of science generally facilitated by a slight re-arrangement of the courses of study. At the same time advantage might be taken of the change to introduce special degrees in science.

With these objects the following scheme is submitted for the consideration of the Calcutta University.

In addition to the B. A. Examination there should be also carried on at the same time, and by the same papers to a great extent an examination for the degree of B. Sc.

The following might be something like the Regulations for the new B. Sc. degree.

A candidate for the degree of B. Sc. shall be examined in any three of the following five groups of subjects :—

I.—Mathematics.

II.—Physics and Chemistry.

III.—Physiology and either Botany or Zoology.

IV.—Geology and either Mineralogy or Physical Geography.

V.—Mental and Moral Science.

The definitions of these subjects for the B. Sc. Examination may be the same as for the B. A. Examination.

A candidate for the degree of B. Sc. must study for two academical years after passing the F. A. Examination, and must take the Honours course in at least one of the three groups selected by him for examination.

The papers for the B. Sc. Examination will be the same as for the B. A. Examination.

A candidate who has already taken the degree of B. A. will be admitted to the degree of B. Sc. on passing an examination only in the additional subjects which are required to complete the B. Sc. course, that is, it will not be necessary for him to again pass the Examination in the subjects in which he passed at the B. A. Examination. Under similar conditions a candidate who is a B. Sc. will of course be admitted to the degree of B. A. Thus a student might pass his examination in Mathematics, in Physics and Chemistry and in Geology and Mineralogy and become a B. Sc., and in the following year he might pass only in the B. A. standard in English and become B. A. as well.

In passing it may be mentioned that in addition to the probability of a student taking the B. Sc. degree after his B. A. by being examined in one or more additional Science subjects, a student might take B. Sc. only two years after the F. A. without taking a B. A. degree, or take the examinations for both B. A. and B. Sc. in the same year, two years after he had passed the F. A. Examination. In illustration it may be stated that in the first case a student "X" might take up in one year English, Mental and Moral science and a 2nd language, and become a B. A., and in the following year he might take up III. (Physiology, &c.) and IV (Geology) and become B. Sc. in addition. In the second case "Y." might elect to be examined in II (Physics and Chemistry) in Honours, and in III and IV in the pass standard, and become a B. Sc. only. And in the third case "Z." might take up English, I (Mathematics in Honours), II (Physics and Chemistry), and IV (Geology, &c.,) and take the two degrees of B. A. and B. Sc. in the same year.

A student who had taken the B. A. degree alone would be only eligible to pass on to the Master of Arts degree, and any student who had taken the B. Sc. degree alone would be able to pass on to the Master of Science degree only, while a B. A. and B. Sc. student who only passed the higher degree in a Science subject or in a Literature subject would be able to take only the M. Sc. degree or the M. A. degree according as he passed in the former or in the latter subject. If, however, a B. A., B. Sc. graduate passed the M. A. standard in any Literature subject as well as in a Science subject, he would become both M. Sc. and M. A.

As the Master of Science degree would to a great extent be a novelty, the title might be objected to on this score. There are, however, many reasons why this title is a more suitable one than the Master of Arts for a student who has really taken his degree in Science subjects only. A movement in the direction of conferring the Master of Science degree on those who pass out in Science has lately commenced at the Oxford University, and in the Overland Mail of March 9th, 1894, the following paragraph appears:—

"The proposal to establish degrees.—Master of Science and Master of Letters to be granted to members of the University of Oxford who have qualified for the B. A. Examination, and to other qualified persons not graduates of Oxford, after a course of special study or research, will be submitted to congregation in a series of resolutions on May 8th."

The Regulations for the proposed new Master of Science degree might therefore be based on the following principles. The portion of the present University M. A. Regulations in which M. A. degrees can be obtained in Science subjects corresponding with those given below would how ever have to be modified, so that unless a student who had passed both B. A. and B. Sc. Examinations, passed the higher examination in two subjects, one included in the *M. A. Regulations and one in the M. Sc. Regulations (in say a Language or in Mental and Moral science and in Mathematics) he would not be entitled to be called both M. A. and M. Sc.

Examination for the degree of Master in Science.

A candidate for the degree of Master in Science shall be examined in one of the following branches :—(the same as for the present M. A. Examination).

- I.—Mathematics. Pure and mixed.
- II.—Chemistry, Inorganic and Organic.
- III.—Heat, Electricity, and Magnetism as principal subjects, with Light and Sound as subsidiary subjects.
- IV.—Light and Sound as principal subjects, with Heat, Electricity and Magnetism as subsidiary subjects
- V.—Botany.
- VI.—Physiology and Zoology.
- VII.—Geology and Mineralogy.
- VIII.—Mental and Moral Science.

The courses in these subjects will be the same as for the present M. A. Examination.

There must be an interval of at least one and a half academical years between a candidate's passing the B. Sc. Examination and his appearing at the M. Sc. Examination, as at present between a candidate's passing the B. A. Examination and his appearing at the M. A. Examination.

The papers for this examination will be similar to those which are now used for the M. A. Examination in the same branch.

It is also proposed that the M. Sc. degree should form the preliminary training for the further D. Sc. degree, which

* The M. A. degree would be still obtainable in—

1. Languages.
2. History.
3. Mental and Moral to Philosophy.
4. Mathematics.

Of these (3) and (4) are also included under the M. Sc. Regulations. The M. Sc. degree would be obtainable in Natural and Experimental Sciences, Mathematics and Mental and Moral Philosophy.

it is believed would be a degree which would be much coveted. One of the fundamental conditions of the grant of such a degree would be the capacity of a candidate for the degree to do original work in the Science which he professes. Hence in the suggestions below, this point is kept in prominence.

Doctor of Science.

No candidate shall be admitted to the examination for the degree of D. Sc. until after the expiration of two academical years from the time of his passing the examination for Master in Science.

A candidate for the Degree of Doctor of Science shall select a special subject from the list of branches given under the examination for Master in Science; and, with his application to appear at the examination, he shall transmit an original Dissertation or Thesis treating scientifically some special department of the subject selected by him, embodying the result of independent research, or showing evidence of his own work, whether based on the discovery of new facts observed by himself, or of new relations of facts observed by others, or generally tending to the advancement of Science. The Dissertation or Thesis shall have been written in view of candidature, or shall have been published within the two academical years immediately preceding.

Every candidate may further specify any printed contribution or contributions to the advancement of Science, which he has at any time previously published, and every contribution so specified and submitted shall be considered and taken as part of his qualification for the degree.

If the Dissertation or Thesis be approved by the Examiners, the candidate shall be required to present himself at the University upon such day or days as may be notified to him, and shall at the discretion of the Examiners, be further tested, either orally or practically or by printed questions or by all of these methods, and with special reference to his Dissertation or Thesis, and on the Examiners reporting that the original work submitted by the candidate and the knowledge shown in his subject during the examination is equal to the required standard, the candidate shall receive the degree of D. Sc.

In conclusion, it may be pointed out that the above scheme provides for an undoubted advance in the method of testing the scientific training of the students appearing at the examinations of the Calcutta University, while it also provides for the introduction of the three new degrees of B. Sc., M. Sc. and D. Sc., with only a very slight rearrangement of the present examination system of the University.

The special features of the scheme are therefore :—

- (1) It does not interfere with any of the existing courses of study.
- (2) It will enable the students to go through a more complete course of studies in Science.
- (3) It gives greater facilities to the study of Biology and Geology, and will therefore give a better training to students who want to study medicine or prepare for service in the Geological Department, &c.
- (4) Many students who are deficient in mathematics will under this scheme be able to study science. They will be able to take, for example, the three groups, Physics and Chemistry, Biology and Geology. Under the present rules, the fact of Mathematics being a compulsory subject in the B. course prevents many under-graduates from taking up that course.
- (5) Graduates in Arts and under-graduates in Medicine and Engineering will be attracted by it, and inclined to study science more as they will be able to take a degree in it.
- (6) It will give a higher intellectual ideal to our graduates and promote original research in science.
- (7) It will practically not cost the University anything extra in the way of setting papers, &c. The existing papers will only have to be redistributed."

Babu Golapchandra Sarkar seconded the motion, which was put to the meeting and carried.

185. Dr. Asutosh Mukerjee moved that the following recommendation of the Syndicate be adopted:—

That the Resolution of the Senate, dated the 28th January, 1888, (Minutes for 1887-88, page 289), vis, "That articles 12-55 of Huxley's Introductory Science Primer be adopted as an introduction to the subject of Physical Geography, and that Geikie's Physical Geography Primer be adopted as the text-book in that subject," be modified so as to allow of the substitution, as occasion may arise, by the Syndicate of other books covering the same ground.

The motion which was seconded by Babu Umeschandra Datta was carried.

186. The Rev. Father Lafont, S.J., C.I.E., moved "that at meetings of the Senate no member be allowed to speak for more than ten minutes on any motion unless, after taking the sense of the meeting, the Chairman declares the rule to be suspended." The mover said that in proposing this motion some months ago, it was not his intention to detract in the least from the liberty of discussion which ought to prevail at their meetings, but rather to facilitate the conduct of business. The meetings of the Senate were generally held on subjects which obtained ample discussion by the Faculties, and therefore they were less likely to lead to great contention. It therefore seemed to him that a member who wished to take part in a discussion before the Senate, gave himself out as an expert in the matter under discussion, and he took it that an expert was a man who could in a very short compass, elucidate the matter under discussion. The hearers, too, were supposed to be more competent to hold opinions on these subjects; and these were the reasons which had impelled him to make the motion. But there were additional reasons in favour of the motion. They may have noticed that when there were important questions before them, their meetings were usually well attended, very often by men who attended at the expense of their other business. Long speeches, generally, were attended by the consideration of the subjects being postponed; some speakers took up half an hour on the discussion of one subject, and this surely, in many cases, was unreasonable. There were cases in which long speeches no doubt were necessary, but these were rare, and on the whole he thought that ten minutes was a fair allowance to make to any one to speak on any of the subjects which came before them. The alternative proposition which he had added on to his motion, gave a discretion to the Chairman to take the sense of the meeting, and this he hoped would meet the views of opponents to his motion.

Mr. Abdur Rahman seconded the motion.

Babu Herambachandra Maitra said that he thought it his duty to oppose the motion, on the ground that it would be materially difficult to follow the complicated procedure which the motion suggested, and to avoid the inconveniences which might result from it. The members of the Senate had shown themselves capable of coming to a conclusion in a wonderfully short time when there were no differences of principle regarding any proposal placed before them. When there were differences of principle, there was no reason why perfect freedom of debate should not be enjoyed by them. If there were occasions on which it was necessary to speak long, he did not see why an arbitrary restriction should be imposed upon a speaker. This was one of those matters which should be left to the discretion of individual members and to the influence of public opinion. Nobody would accuse Dr. McConnell of a wish to make long speeches, but he had spoken for 25 minutes in moving his resolution regarding the M. D. degree. Members of the Senate might be trusted to use their discretion as to the length of their speeches, and to see for themselves whether they were weakening or strengthening a cause by trespassing too much upon the time and patience of others. If they were to do their duty properly, they must come prepared to submit to the inconvenience of having long speeches inflicted upon themselves.

Rai Lalmadhab Mukerjee, Bahadur, and Babu Umeschandra Datta spoke against the motion.

The Hon'ble Mr. Justice Gooroo Dass Bannerjee said that his objection to the motion was that it might have the effect of being an implied censure upon the past conduct of the learned members of the Senate. If this rule had been made the first year the University was established, there would have been no such implication. They had been going on for thirty years now without the rule, and if this rule was now passed, it would, he repeated, imply a vote of censure upon them.

The motion was then put to the vote and lost, 18 voting for and 20 against it.

187. The next item of business was to consider the following rules for the recognition of schools, the consideration of which was postponed at the meeting of the Senate held on the 6th of January last :—

“(3) The application must contain—

(a) The constitution of the managing body, and names of its members.

(b) A statement of the probable income of the school, and of the sources from which it is derived

(c) The proposed scale of establishment, and the names of the teachers.

(d) The scale of fees to be charged

(e) An assurance that no teacher will be allowed to teach more than 50 scholars at the same time.

(4) The Syndicate may call for any further information, including information as to the situation and sanitary condition of the school, and suitability of the rooms used as class-rooms, and may, if considered necessary, require the managers to furnish satisfactory guarantees that the school will be maintained on the proposed scale for five years.

(6) A school shall be recognised in the first instance for five years only, after which the recognition may be renewed. The application for renewal must contain the same particulars as the original application, and must be submitted six months before the expiry of the period of recognition.”

Babu Kalicharan Banerjee moved that clause (a) of Rule 3 be re-affirmed.

Dr Asutosh Mukerjee seconded the motion, which was carried.

Babu Kalicharan Banerjee moved that clause (b) of rule 3 be omitted.

The motion which was seconded by the Rev. Father Lafont was carried.

Babu Kalicharan Banerjee moved that clause (c) of Rule 3 be modified as follows :—

‘The number, names and qualifications of the teachers whom it is proposed to appoint’

Dr. Asutosh Mukerjee seconded the motion, which was carried.

Babu Kalicharan Banerjee moved that clause (d) of the Rule 3 be re-affirmed

Dr. Asutosh Mukerjee seconded the motion, which was carried.

With reference to rule (3) clause (e) Babu Kalicharan Banerjee proposed to move—

(1). That in the opinion of the Senate, it is desirable that there should be a maximum limit to the number of Scholars taught at the same time in any of the classes recognised by the University.

(2). That in the opinion of the Senate such limits should, from time to time, be fixed by the Senate

(3). That rule 3, clause (e) be modified as follows, namely :—

An assurance that no teacher will be allowed to teach at the same time more than the number of scholars fixed by the Senate, from time to time, as the maximum limit.

(4). That the Senate fix the maximum limit at 60 for a period of three years next after the date when these rules come into operation, and request the Syndicate to report, during the third year of that period, on the working of the limit.

He then moved the first of the foregoing propositions. Dr. Asutosh Mukerjee seconded the motion.

The Rev. J. Morrison opposed the motion.

The Rev. A. P. Begg supported the motion.

Babu Umeshchandra Datta, the Rev. Father Lafont, the Rev. J. P. Ashton, Babu Golapchandra Sarkar and the Rev. H. Whitehead spoke against the motion.

The Hon'ble Mr. Justice Gooroo Dass Banerjee moved the following amendment :—

“That rule 3, clause (e) be re-affirmed with the addition of the words ‘in any class below the first two.’”

Babu Ramcharan Mitra seconded the amendment.

The Rev. J. P. Ashton and Babu Herambachandra Maitra spoke against the amendment.

The amendment was put to the meeting and lost, 12 voting for and 25 against it.

The original motion was then put to the meeting and was lost, 16 voting for and 22 against it.

The consequential motions (2), (3) and (4) therefore dropped.

Babu Kalicharan Banerjee moved that Rule (4) be re-affirmed.

The motion was seconded by Dr. Asutosh Mukerjee and carried.

Babu Kalicharan Banerjee moved that Rule (6) be omitted.

Dr. Asutosh Mukerjee seconded the motion, which was carried.

The mover said, “ Gentlemen,—In asking you to accept this recommendation, I may mention to you at the outset that the scheme now before you was formulated in the first instance by a Committee of the Board of Studies in Mathematics, was next placed before the Board of Studies, by whom it was adopted with some trifling changes, was next placed before the Faculty of Arts, where after considerable discussion it was adopted by a large majority, and now comes before you for approval with the recommendation of the Syndicate. Under such circumstances, it would not ordinarily be necessary for me to torment you with a detailed statement of the reasons which may be urged in favour of the scheme you are called upon to accept. But, unfortunately, that happy course is not open to me on the present occasion, for you will observe that an esteemed member of the Senate, Babu Gaurisankar De, has given notice of an amendment; it, therefore, becomes necessary for me to explain the reasons for the motion, and I shall proceed to do so as briefly and with as little technicality as I can.

If you will turn to paragraph 8 of the M.A. Regulations, you will find a list of the sixteen subjects in which every candidate for the M. A. Examination in Mathematics is examined; this list of subjects is now very much the same as it was first framed thirty-five years ago, except for a slight change introduced ten years ago, when the easier parts of Differential Equation, Newton's Principia and Rigid Dynamics were included in the course. But although this list of subjects has remained practically unchanged for so many years, nothing would be a greater mistake than to suppose that the amount of work which a student has to undergo in order to master these subjects has remained equally unchanged. In reality, on account of immense progress in the different branches of mathematics in recent years, and on account of the incorporation of the results of such researches in modern text-books, the course is now very much longer than what it was, say fifteen or twenty years ago. One concrete case will illustrate what I mean; only twelve years ago, even the most ambitious of our students who wanted to master the subject of Analytical Statics, would have been satisfied with Dr. Todhunter's book on the subject, for the excellent reason, that it was at that time the only advanced book on the subject in the English language; at the present moment, a student who wants to have even a moderate acquaintance with the subject, cannot afford to ignore Professor Minchin's book, which at the lowest estimate, contains three times as much matter as Dr. Todhunter's book. The example I have given to you is by no means a solitary, exceptional case ; similar remarks apply to almost every subject included in the course. Owing to this change in the size and, in many cases, in the essential character of the text-books, there has been the greatest difficulty in recent years in prescribing text-books for the M. A. examination. During the last six years, I have heard it constantly urged, on the one hand, that the Board, in prescribing text-books for the M. A. Examination, ought to select the most recent and approved text-books, and on the other hand, that if the Board does this, the course becomes so long that no professor, however enthusiastic he may be, can adequately teach the course, and no student, however industrious he may be, can read through the books within the time allotted. Last year a way out of this difficulty was suggested, namely, that we should divide the subjects for the M. A. Examination in Mathematics into two groups, in one of which Pure Mathematics and in the other Mixed Mathematics predominate, that is to say, candidates instead of being obliged, as they are practically obliged under the present system, to acquire only a superficial knowledge of both Pure and Mixed Mathematics should be offered the option of acquiring either an advanced knowledge of pure Mathematics and a comparatively elementary knowledge of mixed Mathematics, or an advanced knowledge of mixed Mathematics and a comparatively elementary knowledge of pure Mathematics. The matter was then referred to a Committee of five, in order that the details of the scheme might be worked out ; and when I mention to you that four of the five members of the Committee were Mr. Griffiths, Mr. Booth, Mr. Gilliland, and Mr. Little, I am fairly entitled to say that the matter could not have been entrusted to four other gentlemen possessing longer experience in teaching and examining M. A. candidates. The matter was carefully discussed by the Committee, who submitted a scheme to the Board ; the Board adopted it with slight alterations ; the recommendations of the Board were then, by order of the Syndicate, placed before the Faculty of Arts, where the matter was discussed threadbare, and the recommendations of the Board were adopted by the Faculty, and these recommendations are now before you for your approval. So much for the reason of the scheme, and the stages through which it has passed.

Now let us examine for a moment the objections which have been urged against the scheme ; when analysed, they seem to me to be reducible to two. In the first place, it is urged that the result of the change will be to make the examination easier than it is now. I emphatically deny that such a result will necessarily follow from the adoption of the new system. Surely the difficulty of an examination depends not so much upon what books you prescribe, as upon the character of the questions you set, and the quality of the answers you expect from the candidates. Rest assured that if our examiners set questions which may be answered by any superficial reader, or if our examiners are weak enough to accept inaccurate answers, the examination is really an easy one, however long and however difficult the books you prescribe for the examination. It, therefore, appears to me to be inconceivable how it can be urged, with any show of reason, that a lowering of the standard will be the inevitable consequence of a scheme which admittedly requires on the part of the candidates a more thorough and searching knowledge of fewer subjects than we now do. Let us take the second objection ; it is said that if the new scheme is adopted, we shall be sacrificing the interests of Mixed Mathematics, for it is said that the second group in which Mixed Mathematics predominates, is more difficult than the first group, and students will avoid it. For my part, after the most anxious consideration of the subject, I do not think there is much to choose between the two groups, and it will depend not so much upon the students as upon the professors as to what groups they will take up. I may mention that precisely the same difficulty was raised when a similar bifurcation was proposed and adopted in the course for Physical Science for the M. A. Examination. You will remember that ten or eleven years ago, candidates for the M. A. Examination in Physical Science were examined in Heat, Electricity, Magnetism, Light and Sound. When it was suggested that the course should be divided into two groups, in one of which Electricity and Heat should predominate, and in the other Light and Sound, so that candidates might acquire a more thorough knowledge of recent researches, both on the theoretical and the practical side, it was objected that the study of Electricity and Heat would be practically abandoned, as that group was the more difficult of the two. But, if you refer to the official records, you will find that till the last two or three years all the candidates went in for Electricity and none for Light, for the good reason that the professors in the Presidency College were teaching Electricity and not Light, and it is only during the last three years that we are having candidates in both the groups. And I have no doubt that in the case of Mathematics, even if the professors in the Presidency College completely desert the cause of Mixed Mathematics, which there is no reason to suppose they will do, yet, if gentlemen with the well-deserved reputation of Babu Gaurisankar De, will offer to deliver lectures on the subjects of the second group, students will readily flock to attend them. But even assuming for a moment that the second group in which Mixed Mathematics predominates is forsaken by the Presidency College professors, as well as by men like Babu Gaurisankar, I do not see that we shall be practically sacrificing the cause of Mixed Mathematics, for, I maintain, that the amount of Mixed Mathematics in group A is quite as much as an average M. A. graduate now learns; no doubt proposed the list of books looks less respectable than the list we now prescribe, but it is notorious that our students have not the time to read them, and I have no doubt that if they thoroughly learn the amount of Mixed Mathematics which we prescribe as a subsidiary subject, they will learn quite as much as any ordinary M. A. student has ever done.

Having answered the objections which have been urged against the scheme you are asked to adopt, I purpose to consider for a moment the alternative scheme brought forward at the very last moment by Babu Gaurisankar De. However much I may wish that the learned member had formulated his scheme at an earlier stage of the proceedings, when it would have been possible to obtain the criticism of experts upon its merits, I would be the last person to take any objection on the ground of unnecessary delay, if I could only persuade myself to believe that the scheme was essentially good and deserved our support. Any technical discussion of the defects of the scheme would be wholly out of place in an assembly like this, and I can only tell you that the most careful examination of the matter leaves no doubt in my mind that the effect of the scheme is to make the course longer than it has ever been, and to put a premium upon a necessarily superficial acquaintance with a large number of subjects. It seems to me, therefore, that the adoption of the scheme would be a move in precisely the wrong direction, and that therefore it has no claim to our support.

To sum up the argument : I maintain that the present system is unsatisfactory, inasmuch as we prescribe a large number of subjects which can neither be adequately taught nor properly mastered; that the system recommended will be a decided improvement, inasmuch as it will enable candidates to obtain a deeper and more extensive knowledge of fewer subjects; that the system now recommended to you is not a crude, immature, or hastily formed scheme, but has had the most careful consideration bestowed upon it by your constituted advisers on such matters; that the adoption of the scheme recommended by another learned member of the Senate will be unquestionably a move in the wrong direction, inasmuch as it proposes to make the course longer and so tends to encourage superficiality, thus maintaining, and possibly aggravating, the evil which it is desirable to remove; and, lastly, that if you yield to the suggestion of sending the matter back for further consideration, you will be postponing the operation of an extremely beneficial change longer than is necessary. On these grounds, gentlemen, I have no hesitation in asking you to accept my motion."

Mr. Gilliland seconded the motion.

Babu Gaurisankar De moved the following amendment :—

That the course of studies in Mathematics for the M.A. Examination be referred back to the Board of Studies in Mathematics for consideration with special reference to the following scheme :—

- The M.A. Examination in Mathematics shall be divided into two parts, of which Part I shall be compulsory and Part II optional.

- Part I.—Examination shall be in the following subjects :—

2. Plane and Spherical Trigonometry.
3. Theory of Equations.
4. Analytical Plane and Solid Geometry.
5. Differential Calculus.
6. Integral Calculus, including the elements of the Calculus of Variations.
7. Differential Equations.
8. Analytical Statics.
9. Dynamics of a Particle.
10. Dynamics of a rigid body.
11. Hydrostatics.
12. Newton's Principia, Sections 1 to 3.
13. Spherical Astronomy.

Part II.—Examination shall be in the following two groups of subjects :—

Group A.

A candidate shall be at liberty to take up one or both or neither of the optional groups.

Six papers will be set on the subjects of Part I and one paper each on the subjects of group A and B of Part II. Each paper will carry 100 marks.

A candidate must obtain 210 marks in the aggregate to pass in the third class, 300 marks to pass in the second class, and 400 marks to pass in the first class. Marks less than 15 per cent. in any paper will not be counted.

Babu Ramendrasundar Trebedi seconded the amendment, and the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Gooroo Dass Banerjee opposed it.

The amendment was put to the vote and lost.

The original motion was then put to the vote and carried.

189. Dr. Asutosh Mukerjee moved that the following recommendation of the Syndicate be adopted :—

(A). "That in the Rules for the First Examination in Arts (Calendar for 1894, p. 132), the following be added to paragraph 4 :—

In one of the papers in English, some subject for original composition shall be set ; 25 marks will be assigned to this question "

(B). "That in the Rules for the B. A. Examination (Calendar for 1894, p. 132), the following be added to paragraph 3 :—

In English in one of the pass papers, some subject for original composition shall be set ; 30 marks will be assigned to this question.

In the fourth honour paper in English, some subject for original composition shall be set ; 50 marks will be assigned to this question."

(C). "That with a view to enable students to devote more time to English Composition than they do now, the number of books usually prescribed in English for F.A. and B.A. students be reduced."

Babu Kalicharan Banerjee seconded the motion which was carried unanimously.

190. Dr. Asutosh Mukerjee moved that the following recommendation of the Syndicate be adopted—

(A). That in paragraph 7 of the B. A. Regulations, under the heading "B. II. Mathematics" (Calendar for 1894, p. 36), the words "Descriptive Astronomy" be added.

(B). That with a view to induce students to acquire an intelligent knowledge of the principles of the Mathematical subjects, and to make room for the study of Astronomy without throwing additional burden on them, the following be added to paragraph 3 of the rules relating to the B. A. Examination (Calendar for 1894, p. 133) :—

“In the pass papers in Mathematics, three-fifths of the marks shall be assigned to book-work, and two-fifths to simple riders.

In the honour papers in Mathematics, one-half of the marks shall be assigned to book-work, and the other half to easy riders and problems.”

(C). That the questions in Descriptive Astronomy be confined to book-work.

(D). That only the elementary parts of Descriptive Astronomy be included in the course.

Babu Mahendranath Ray seconded the motion, which was carried.

191. Dr. Asutosh Mukerjee moved that the following recommendation of the Syndicate be adopted :—

“That the following foot-note be added to the second sentence of the second paragraph and to the proviso as to attendance in the fourth sentence of the fourth paragraph of the F. A. Regulations, and to the second sentence of the second paragraph and to the proviso as to attendance in the fourth sentence of the fifth paragraph of the B.A. Regulations (Calendar for 1894, pp. 29, 30, 33, 34).

‘The Syndicate have power to make exceptions to this rule.’ ”

Babu Nilmani Mukerjee seconded the motion.

The Rev. J. Morrison opposed the motion.

Babu Mahendranath Ray pointed out that the foot-note should be made to refer specially to the 66 per cent. portion of the rule, as there was already a foot-note to the portions of the rule quoted in the motion.

The motion which was accordingly amended was then put to the meeting and carried.

393. The Senate was convened for the purpose of conferring degrees.

The Vice-Chancellor having declared the Convocation opened, the Graduates of the year were admitted to their respective degrees in the usual manner.

The Vice-Chancellor then addressed the Convocation as follows :—

YOUR HONOUR, MEMBERS OF THE SENATE,

The degrees in the various Faculties having now been conferred upon the successful candidates, it once more becomes my duty to address to the Senate such observations as the academical incidents of the past year may suggest. The history of the University during the year has not indeed been very eventful; but still it will be seen that there have arisen certain points of practical interest, to which, on the occasion of this annual review, attention may not unprofitably be directed.

Before entering upon that review, I would invite the attention of the Senate to the new, and perhaps not yet very beautiful, screen which stands behind me. Most of us know, by the painful experience of many years, that the acoustic properties of this hall were deplorable. Within a few feet only could a speaker be heard; beyond that distance nothing was audible but a confused buzz. We have invoked the aid of some of the scientific members of the Senate in an endeavour to remedy this defect and the result is this paraboloidal reflector. The paraboloid is so arranged that its focus coincides with the mouth of the speaker ; and its axis is slightly depressed so that the reflected waves of sound pass in parallel lines all down the hall. I believe I am justified in expressing the hope that the words of a speaker standing in this place will henceforward be heard distinctly to the farthest corner of the hall. It is a result on which the University may well be congratulated, in having at last a hall in which the faculty of hearing is added to the gift of speech ; and our hearty thanks are due to those members of the Senate—I may name Messrs. Griffiths, Pedler and Gilliland—who have devised so successful a project.

At the last Convocation I took occasion to remark upon the fact that the number of successful candidates at the Entrance Examination had risen at a bound from 2,034 to 3,722, and the percentage of success from 39 to 65. At the same time I expressed some doubt whether these exceptional results pointed to a permanent improvement in the quality of the candidates, or whether they were not rather due to causes of a temporary and evanescent character, to which every University is liable. The results of the past year show that these misgivings were not without foundation. The number of successful candidates has again gone back from 3,722 to 2,269, and the percentage of success from 65 to 42. The present results show merely such a normal rate of improvement over those of the last year but one, as we might expect to find in an institution that answers to a popular need, as undoubtedly this University does.

In the examination for the B.A. degree, the number of successful candidates has advanced from 315 to 497 ; and the percentage of success from 25 to 35. Here again we are compelled to take note of fluctuations in the result, not only in the last, but in several previous years. This affords me an opportunity of saying a word or two upon a matter on which some misconception appears to prevail.

Differences in the numerical results of examinations may arise from two causes ; the candidates may differ from year to year in ability and knowledge, or the standard of examination may vary. With regard to the first of these two causes, it is true that, since we count our candidates by the thousand, differences in their quality from one year to another might be expected to disappear when spread over so large an area; but yet the experience of every examiner will tell him that this is not the case. There are years marked by a high level of merit, and years marked by a low level; and if such differences exist, they will tell on the results quite independently of the particular standard of examination. But, however that may be, it is a matter with which we are not very closely concerned. It is no part of our business to teach the candidates who present themselves; all that we have to do is to find out how they have been taught by others.

With the second of the two causes I have named we are very intimately concerned. If from year to year there are violent fluctuations in the standard, such as to lead us to believe that candidates who might pass by the standard of one year would fail in large numbers by that of the next, the responsibility for such a state of things comes home to us much more closely, and it becomes our plain duty to do what we can to remedy it. Prevent it altogether we cannot: for a University examination is not a mere mechanical process, in which a fixed and unvarying measure is applied to an object to be measured. The measure in this case is the mind of the examiner, and the amount and quality of the knowledge which he is prepared to accept as coming up to the prescribed standard. That is a matter of interpretation; and it is out of the question to expect that the interpretation put by different men upon the qualifying standard shall be invariable. In every University, at Oxford and Cambridge just as at Calcutta, there are hard examiners and lenient examiners; those who fix their attention upon the mistakes or the ignorance of a candidate, and those who look rather for the saving signs of knowledge. Variations of this kind there will continue to be, and we must continue to accept them. But I think it right to point out that the Syndicate, with whom rests the appointment of examiners, does all that it possibly can to secure a uniform standard. This we effect mainly by the steady re-appointment from year to year of examiners on whose skill and judgment we can rely. So large is the number of examiners whom we have to appoint, and so frequent, especially in the higher examinations, are the changes necessitated by examiners leaving India, or leaving this part of India, that the appointment of a permanent Board of Examiners—a course which has been more than once recommended to us by high authority—is really impracticable. But we do what comes to very much the same thing, in that we sedulously avoid anything like capricious change. An examiner whose worth we have proved is appointed again and again so long as he will undertake the duty. It may cause surprise to some of my hearers to learn for how large a body of examiners we have to provide. Last year, for example, there were for the B.A. degree 35 examiners, for the First Arts examination 50, and for the Entrance examination 85. In such a body changes must take place ; but I think I am within the mark when I say that four-fifths of these were re-appointed by the Syndicate, a fortnight ago, to be examiners for the current year. We treat our examiners, in fact, as Polonius counselled Laertes to treat his friends :—

“ Those friends thou hast, and their adoption tried,
Grapple them to thy soul with hooks of steel.”

In the Entrance examination, where we have to deal with from 5,000 to 6,000 candidates every year, and where there are 15 or 20 examiners in each of the principal subjects, still further measures are taken for securing uniformity of standard ; and it may not be out of place if I state briefly what they are. A Head Examiner is appointed in each subject ; and before the marking of the answer-papers begins, he calls a meeting of the other examiners in that subject, and they decide on what principles the answers shall be valued. Each examiner then looks over and provisionally marks a certain number of the papers, and submits them to the Head Examiner for re-valuation. This enables him and them to form a pretty clear idea of the various ways in which a question can be answered, and to assign exact values to answers of different degrees of error. Another meeting is held ; the final rules are drawn up ; and the examination of the papers begins. When each examiner has finished about 100 papers, he sends them with his marks to the Head Examiner, who takes out five or more papers at random from the batch, and tests the marks that have been assigned to them. If he is not satisfied with this examination by sample, he can give the examiner any further instructions that he may think called for, or may return the whole batch to him for re-examination. The same course is followed with every subsequent batch of 100 papers. I do not think that any University in the world takes the same laborious precautions that we do in order to get rid of the 'personal equation' of the examiners.

Further, we make it a practice, as far as we can, to appoint as examiners none but those who now are, or lately have been, engaged in the actual work of teaching. This is done in the interests of the candidates; for such men are far better judges than outsiders can be of the actual capabilities of candidates, and of the standard which they may be fairly expected to reach; and are therefore disposed to take a more charitable view of their performances. If, then, with such a body of examiners, the normal proportion of success is no more than 30 or 40 per cent., it may, I think, be fairly claimed that no more than that proportion of the candidates are qualified to pass.

To say that only 30 or 40 per cent. of the candidates pass the examinations is equivalent to saying that from 60 to 70 per cent. fail. This, it cannot be denied, is a very heavy proportion, and means, to the majority of those who fail, acute disappointment and the heart-sickness that follows labour spent in vain. To some it means despair. With all such we can cordially sympathise; but, the circumstances of education in India being what they are, we can hardly feel surprised at the result. There is an overwhelming demand for University education, as affording to large classes the only opening, I will not say to wealth and honour, but to bare subsistence. The demand was met in earlier years, partly by the colleges which the Government provided in the most important centres, and partly by those great institutions which owe their existence, not merely to missionary zeal, but to that generous and kindly interest in the people of India and their education which is felt by large numbers of persons in Great Britain and America. For many years the colleges so established and maintained were sufficient for the needs of the time. But as the demand for education increased, it became necessary to provide for it in other ways. During the last ten or fifteen years we have witnessed unexampled activity in the foundation, by private enterprise, of colleges and schools offering instruction in the standards of the University at very low rates of fees. Still, it cannot be denied that the existing conditions are in many ways unfavourable to the Indian student. In most colleges the class-rooms are crowded, and it becomes increasingly difficult for the Professor to give his attention to individual needs ; and thus instruction becomes professorial instead of tutorial. Many of the students though still belonging to what may be called the literate classes, are very poor, and can barely afford to purchase the necessary text-books. Books of reference, so indispensable an aid to education, are mostly beyond their means, and can only be consulted in the college libraries, not perhaps at the moment they are wanted, but only when they can be had. Many live amid surroundings of almost squalid poverty, in crowded rooms with bad ventilation and worse light. No great number seemed until lately to have any rooted belief in the virtues of fresh air and physical exercise, though there are marks of a gratifying advance in this direction. Compare all this with the spacious and comfortable quarters, the abundant facilities for study, the opportunities for exercise and recreation, and, above all, perhaps, the freedom from pecuniary anxiety, which are enjoyed by the majority of Oxford and Cambridge men. The comparison will enable us to understand how much more favourable to study, to health, and to success in the examinations are the conditions of English University life than those which prevail in India; and we shall no longer wonder at the frequent failure of Indian students to pass their examinations.

It is easy to state the difficulties under which Indian students labour, but it is by no means easy to devise a remedy. Crowded class-rooms are a necessity in colleges maintained by private agencies ; for the fees are low, and without a large attendance of students the expenses cannot be met. The poverty of the students and the disabilities arising therefrom, are matters which it is almost useless for me to touch upon here. They may be exhorted to betake themselves to other callings ; but what other callings are open to them ? Trade and commerce demand capital. Admirable facilities are provided in special institutions for learning medicine and engineering ; but the way to profitable occupation in these professions is as yet very narrow. In all directions they find the road barred, and they are forced into the Arts Colleges to run their chance with a crowd of competitors. If they succeed in that endeavour, they are at any rate equipped with a degree, which, if not a certain passport to success, is at least an element of strength. Whatever then can be done to increase the proportion of graduates, to diminish the proportion of those who find the labour of years wasted so far as regards the attainment of a degree, will I think be well done. I spoke just now of the squalid surroundings of many of the students, especially of those who come from a distance, in the lodgings in which they are compelled by their poverty to dwell. It would be a work of the utmost beneficence to enable them to exchange those sordid habitations for airy and comfortable hostels, like that which stands within a stone's throw of this building, where they would not only be able to pursue their studies under conditions of greater health and comfort, but would also be withdrawn from temptations to an irregular life such as now sometimes beset them. The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal has taken the most close and constant interest in this question, and would, I am convinced, gladly second any efforts that private liberality might make for the provision of hostels for mufassil students. Again, physical exercise and manly sports are claiming year by year a larger number of votaries among our students; and to all who are interested in that development of student-life, the Calcutta Maida, on the occasion of any great football match, affords a gratifying spectacle. The game is witnessed by hundreds or thousands of enthusiastic students, who follow its various incidents with keen appreciation, in a way that was absolutely unknown to them only a few years ago. One of the last acts of our late Chancellor, Lord Lansdowne, was to offer a cricket challenge shield for competition by Native Elevens from any school or college in Bengal affiliated to the Calcutta University. The gift added one more to the many benefits which this University owes to the public spirit and the private liberality of its late chancellor.

The results of examinations in Faculties other than Arts afford little material for comment. There is a very satisfactory increase in the number both of candidates, and of successful candidates, for the Preliminary Examination in Medicine; and this means, what we otherwise know to be the fact, that students are betaking themselves to the medical profession in much larger numbers than before. In other respects there is no great change to be noticed in the examinations in Law, Medicine, and Engineering. For the degree of Bachelor in Law two examinations were held during the year by order of the Senate. A second examination was held in July for the benefit of those candidates who, at the examination of the previous November, had gained between 300 and 400 marks. At this supplementary examination 35 candidates passed out of 61. At the regular B. L. Examination held last November, 75 candidates passed out of 303—a result slightly more favourable, in the proportion of 25 to 21½ per cent., than that of November 1893, about which so keen a contest raged.

An incident that arose out of the B. L. Examination of 1893 deserves a passing reference. One of the candidates, who had gained more than the 300 marks specified, by an oversight in the Calendar, as the qualifying standard for the B.L. degree, but who had failed to gain the 400 marks which under the revised scale it was the actual intention of the University to fix, brought a suit in the High Court against the University, praying that he might be declared under the Specific Relief Act to be entitled to the degree. As the learned Judge could discover no trace on the part of the University of any desire to grant him the degree, nor any indication that he was otherwise qualified for it, his suit naturally failed, and a decree was pronounced against him with costs. The incident seems to be unique in the history of Universities. In expressing his opinion that the University, and the University alone, had the power or the jurisdiction to decide such questions, Mr. Justice Sale remarked :—"It would be a disastrous thing for the University, and the cause of education generally, if Courts of Law were to take upon themselves to decide as to the fitness of candidates for degrees to which they seek to be admitted." It is probably the first time that a candidate has not merely considered himself better qualified to judge of his fitness for a degree than his appointed examiners, for that delusion is common enough ; but has also brought a suit in the Courts to establish his claim. In relying on an accidental slip in the Calendar, the litigant candidate appears to have entertained the belief that law in India is divorced from equity—a belief which he and his fellows would perhaps do well to abandon if they hope to rise to eminence in their profession. It is superfluous to point out that this candidate's view of the status pupillaris is widely and even grotesquely removed from those that prevail in older Universities. As one commentator has remarked:—"The candidate's humble task is to get up his subjects. It is for the University to say if he has passed ; and she says it as his Alma Mater, and not as one of two contracting parties to a bargain." So far as the incident may be thought to reveal the existence among our students—I will not say of a desire to profit by a quibble, but of an undutiful spirit, of a spirit wanting in reverence and loyalty to the University to which they owe all their mental gains, it has its painful side too; but on that I will not now dwell.

The education of women, so far as it comes under our University standards, continues to make satisfactory progress. Among the female candidates, twenty-nine passed the Entrance and five the First Arts examinations; while two have to-day been admitted to the B.A. degree. Four female candidates passed at four different examinations in the Faculty of Medicine; though I regret to say that the only candidate who presented herself for the degree of Bachelor in Medicine failed in her attempt on this occasion. On the other hand, one young lady, Nirmalabala Som, who took the M.A. degree three years ago in the subject of English literature, has now passed the examination for that degree a second time, taking Philosophy for her subject. In the presence—I think I am entitled to say, in the name—of the Senate, I congratulate her on the zeal and devotion to learning which have been manifested throughout her distinguished academical career.

The list of vacancies that have arisen in the Senate during the past year through death or retirement, is an exceptionally heavy one; and we have to deplore the loss of many members who had attained to eminence in various departments of literature or science. To those whose work among us is over, a few memorial words are due.

Of Bhudeb Mookerjee I can speak with the knowledge born of a close personal friendship that lasted up to the day of his death. A man of wide culture, familiar with all the main developments of European thought, and holding liberal views on many social subjects, he was a Hindu of the Hindus in all that concerned the regulation of his own life and the doctrines of his religion. After filling with distinguished ability and conspicuous uprightness some of the highest posts in the Education Department, and after receiving from Her Majesty the decoration of the Indian Empire, he retired to Benares, where he devoted his life to the study of the Vedantic philosophy. In the efficacy of its doctrines he had a profound belief, both as a system of philosophy and as a rule of faith, and in it he claimed to find full satisfaction for all his spiritual needs. His shrewd and kindly face, the dignity of his presence, the charm of his manner and conversation, made him a noticeable figure in any society. A man of simple and frugal habits, he amassed a considerable fortune, and devoted the whole of it, shortly before his death, to a munificent endowment for the promotion of Sanskrit learning. His death removed the Senior Fellow from our list.

The Revd. Lal Behari Day was known to a wide circle of Indian and English readers through his admirable work entitled 'Bengal Peasant Life.' Among 'the short and simple annals of the poor' this story holds a very high place; and the vivid picture which it gives of their occupations and amusements, their joys and sorrows, has aroused among English readers a deep interest in the peasantry of Bengal. Mr. Day spent 22 years in the higher educational service of Government, from which he retired five years ago; and his intellectual gifts and ready sympathy have been acknowledged by successive generations of college pupils. He professed himself a convert to Christianity at the age of 19, was ordained a minister of the Free Church of Scotland twelve years later, and devoted much of his life to missionary work.

In the field of Bengali literature, there is no greater name than that of Bankim Chandra Chatterjea. The descendant of a distinguished family of Brahmans, he spent his leisure time, while a student of the Hooghly College, in reading Sanskrit grammar and Sanskrit poetry. These exercises, which contributed so greatly to his future eminence, did not interrupt the regular course of his studies; for in 1858, at the first examination held by the University for the B.A. degree, Bankim Chandra headed the list. He was appointed a Deputy Magistrate; but his taste for literature grew and strengthened, and amid the exigencies of his official work he found time for the cultivation of that art in which the true bent of his genius lay; and by which he rose to fame. This is not the place to frame an estimate of his novels, with their ardent, what I may call their Platonic, worship of ideal beauty in all its forms. But they mark an epoch in Bengali literature, and go far to show, in the words of one of his biographers, that "the vernaculars of India possess powers of expression scarcely inferior to other languages." He believed that the highest object of life is the full and harmonious development of all the faculties of human nature, physical, intellectual, and moral; and he also believed that no religion afforded greater facilities for the attainment of this highest aim than Hinduism. So he attached himself to the movement known as the Hindu revival, and found in the Krishna of the Mahábhárata the highest ideal of Hindu worship.

Dr. Sambhu Chandra Mookerjee's mind was cast in a different mould. Though a staunch Hindu, he had but little sympathy with the enthusiasts of the Hindu revival. He held in high respect the strong points of the European character, and he was an indefatigable student of Western literature. At the same time he yielded to none in his admiration for the Eastern world, and in his determination to declare himself, even in the details of his dress, an Oriental. His intimate acquaintance with Muhammadan notabilities in many parts of India gave him a profound sympathy with Muhammadan manners and civilisation. It was as a journalist that he was best known. His wide reading, his extensive travels, his unfailing memory, his keen appreciation of the humorous, his powers of incisive criticism, gave to his writings a force and an originality such as are rare in journalistic literature. Originality and a wide humanity were in fact the leading notes of his remarkable character.

Rai Gunabhiram Barua Bahadur was one of the foremost amongst the natives of Assam. He rose to a high position in the Executive Service of that Province, and received from the Government conspicuous marks of its respect. He took an active part in the direction of a Society for the advancement of the Assamese language and literature, and also devoted himself to historical and antiquarian research within that Province.

Nawab Mir Muhammad Ali took from an early age a keen interest in public affairs, and especially in the education of the Muhammadan community. He was an exemplary landlord, and as a representative Muhammadan he was invited to a seat in the Legislative Council of Bengal. His services were duly recognised by the Government, and obtained for him a place among the titular nobility of the Province.

The Right Rev. Dr. Bigandet was a Prelate of the Roman Church, who applied the opportunities which a prolonged residence in Burma afforded him to the study of the history and literature of Buddhism. His intimate knowledge of the Burmese and Pali languages threw open to him vast stores of original material, which he employed in the production of his well-known and very valuable "Life or Legend of Gaudama," one of the earliest and most authoritative books on this subject in any European language. His distance from Calcutta prevented him from taking any part in our deliberations; but he pursued with close interest those educational questions that arose within the Province in which his life was spent, and as Vice-President of the Educational Syndicate of Burma, he took a leading part in controlling its educational policy.

The Engineering Faculty has lost two prominent and useful members. Rai Radhika Prasad Mookerjee Bahadur spent a long life as an Engineer in the service of Government; and he was a constant attendant at our meetings, both in the Senate and in the Faculty.

Babu Nilmani Mitra, after a brilliant career at Rurki, entered the Public Works Department in Bengal. But he was a man of vigorous and independent spirit, and after a few years he quitted the service of Government to set up in business for himself. In a short time he rose to a high position among the architects of the metropolis. To a resident of Calcutta one might say,—Si monumentum requiris, circumspice. The mansions of many of the wealthy inhabitants of Calcutta, and other important buildings of a public character, bear witness to the originality and success of his ideas.

These whom I have mentioned have been removed from us by the hand of death. There are others whose connection with the University has been severed by their retirement from India. To them also we may address a word of farewell.

Colonel H. S. Jarrett was one of those Englishmen who have devoted their lives to the study of the Oriental languages. As a Persian and Arabic scholar he occupied the foremost official rank; and by his translations into English of Jalaluddin's History of the Khalifs, and of the last half of Abul Fazl's Ain-i-Akbari, in continuation of the earlier and unfinished translation by the late Henry Blochmann, he has gained a distinguished place among the Oriental scholars of Europe and of India.

His distinction in this field has been lately signalled by his enrolment in the Order of the Indian Empire.

Mr. J. C. Nesfield was a veteran educational officer, who quitted Bengal many years ago for the North-Western Provinces, where he rose to be the head of the Education Department. His activity manifested itself in various ways, and specially in the field of ethnology. His ethnological studies were pursued for many years with zeal and success ; and the great value of his researches is cordially acknowledged by Mr. H. H. Risley in the Introduction to his " Tribes and Castes of Bengal."

Dr. William King, the late Director of the Geological Survey of India, owed much of his success in that field to the teaching and guidance which he obtained in early years from his father, the eminent Professor of Geology in Ireland. He took a leading part in framing the new course in Geology, in which a candidate has this year for the first time been admitted to the M. A. degree.

It only remains for me to address a word of counsel and encouragement to the candidates who have this day been admitted to degrees, and whose connection with the University, in the close and intimate form of the last few years, has now come to an end. Last year I took occasion to urge your predecessors still to follow after knowledge ; to acquire fresh stores of learning ; to extend its boundaries, if they could, by their own research ; and thus to repay the debt they owe to the University by establishing her place in the republic of letters. I reminded them, in the impressive words of my predecessor in this Chair, that they had been adopted into the intellectual inheritance of the West ; that they had taken a more definite and a higher place than before as citizens of a great Empire, great alike in the world-wide extent of its sway, in arts, in industry, and in learning. The same privileges and the same responsibilities are yours ; and I would urge you, too, so to comport yourselves, in the life on which you are now entering, that it may be plain to all men that you are not unmindful of them. And especially I would urge you to cultivate a spirit of modesty and reverence, inseparable from the true student everywhere and appropriate in perhaps a special degree to you whom I now address. For among the conditions which have moulded, and, will mould, your destiny, there is much to claim your dutiful affection, and to inspire you with feelings of admiration and reverence. Affection for the University, which has made you what you are, whose future will be partly shaped by your influence, and which can rightly claim from you loyal service, and a constant desire to uphold her dignity and enhance her fame. Admiration for the great men among your own people, such as those of whom I spoke just now ; whose example should stimulate you to follow all that is worthy and of good report, so that your lives, too, may be of value to India, and you yourselves, perhaps, hereafter take an honoured place among her distinguished sons. Reverence for that august Empire of which India forms so conspicuous a part ; so that, casting aside all narrow prejudices of race or nation, you may identify yourselves with her honour and welfare, and feel pride in her achievements in all quarters of the globe. Reverence, above all, for yourselves ; for what is best and highest in you ; and for that imperious sense of duty which lays upon all of us the command to do whatever we have to do with faithfulness, honesty, and courage.

The Vice-Chancellor then declared the Convocation closed.

436. The Minutes of the Syndicate, dated the 9th and the 20th February, were read and confirmed.

437. Read the Minutes of the Faculty of Engineering, dated the 22nd February.

ORDERED—

To be recorded.

RESOLVED—

- That the suggestion made by the Faculty, vis., that one Examiner only be appointed in Practical Drawing, and one in Practical Surveying, and that a fee of Rs. 6 be paid for each candidate, be adopted.

438. Read a letter from the Assistant Registrar, General Medical Council of England, in reply to this office letter No. 650, dated the 10th December last, quoting a note in the Regulations which lays down that the certificates from the Examining Bodies must contain evidence that the examination passed included all the subjects required by the Council.

ORDERED—

That the attention of the Registrar, General Medical Council of the United Kingdom, be invited to paragraph 3 of the Regulations for the Preliminary Examination and to the list of institutions following thereon from which it would appear that the Entrance Examination of the Calcutta University fulfils without any reservation the conditions of the Council, as regards the preliminary test in general education, and that he be requested to state, in reference to the above letter, whether the Syndicate are to understand that, since the Entrance Examination does not include all the subjects required by the Council, the Entrance certificate will not in future be accepted.

439. Read an endorsement from the Principal, Medical College, Calcutta, forwarding an application from Hemchandra Sen, praying that the M. D. Examination may be put off from the day fixed to some other day convenient to the University.

ORDERED—

That the M. D. Examination be held in July along with the L. E. and B. E. Examinations.

440. Read a letter from the Principal, Rajshahye College, reporting that a candidate at the recent Entrance Examination from the Collegiate School, named Syed Ali Hossain, has put down his age in his application as 12, while he appears to be about 21 or 22 years of age, and suggesting that in order to prevent such false statements by candidates for examinations regarding their age, the Syndicate should move the Government to compel registration of the birth of children of those who intend to send them up to the Entrance Examination, and to provide two columns for age in the printed list of candidates, the first for the age given by the candidate and the second for what the candidate's age appears to be to the certifying officer.

ORDERED—

That the Registrar be requested to draw the attention of the Principal, Rajshahye College, to the clause in the certificate appended to the Entrance application, which enjoins the certifying officer to satisfy himself thoroughly as to the truth of the account furnished by the candidate in his application before granting the certificate, and to enquire why, under the circumstances mentioned in the above letter, the application of the candidate in question was countersigned by the Headmaster of the Collegiate School.

441. Read a letter from the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, forwarding, with reference to this office letter No. 918, dated the 2nd February, 1895, a copy of an application from the Superintendent of the Chittagong Madrasa for the recognition of the Anglo-Persian Department of the Madrasa, containing information required in rule 3 of the Rules for the Recognition of Schools.

RESOLVED—

That the Anglo-Persian Department of the Chittagong Madrasa be recognised as an institution qualified to send up candidates to the Entrance Examination.

442. Read a letter from the Inspector of Schools, Lahore Circle, forwarding, with reference to this office letter No. 922, dated the 2nd February, 1895, a certificate, showing that the Auckland House Girls' School, Simla, has been in existence for more than six months, and that the staff is qualified to give instruction up to the Entrance standard.

ORDERED—

That Auckland House Girls' School, Simla, be recognised as a High School qualified to send up candidates to the Entrance Examination.

443. Read a letter from the Secretary, Kurigram H. E. School, submitting a fresh application for the recognition of the School in accordance with rule 3 of the Rules for the Recognition of Schools as required in this office letter No. 915, dated the 2nd February, 1895.

444. Read a letter from the Proprietor, Century School, in reply to this office letter No. 993, dated the 19th February, 1895, and with reference to his application for the affiliation of the above Institution to this University in Arts up to the F. A. standard, submitting the names of the Members of the Committee for the management of the proposed College classes.

ORDERED—

That the Secretary to the Government of India, in the Home Department, be requested to move His Excellency the Governor-General in Council to sanction the affiliation of the Century School to this University in Arts up to the F. A. standard.

445. Read an application from the Proprietor, Gaya Town School, supported by the requisite certificate from the Inspector of Schools, Behar Circle, requesting that the above-named institution may be recognised by the University as a High School qualified to send up candidates to the Entrance Examination.

ORDERED—

That the Inspector of Schools, Behar Circle, be requested to state whether, having regard to the circumstances under which the above School originated, its recognition by the University will, in his opinion, be prejudicial to the interests of sound education and discipline

446. Read an application from the Manager, Pathamadaï High School, requesting that the institution may be recognised as a High School qualified to send up candidates to the Entrance Examination.

ORDERED—

That the Manager, Pathamadaï High School, be informed that the Syndicate regret that they cannot comply with his request.

447. Read a letter from Mr. John Parnell, Founder of the National and Municipal Record Society, offering for sale a map of the East Indies "Neva Tabula Indian Orientalis" for 50s.

ORDERED—

That Mr. John Parnell be informed that the Syndicate regret that they are unable to accept his offer.

448. Read a letter from the Manager of the Teachers' Guild of Great Britain and Ireland, requesting that a copy of the University Calendar may be annually supplied to the Bureau of Information attached to the above Guild.

ORDERED—

That the Manager of the Teachers' Guild be directed to apply to Messrs. Thacker & Co., Newgate Street, London, E. C., for a copy of the Calendar, as the Syndicate are unable to modify the rules regarding the distribution of the University publications.

449. Read an endorsement from the Rector, Albert College, Calcutta, forwarding an application from Sasi-bhushan Nandi, reporting that his brother Nanigopal Nandi, who was permitted to appear at the F. A. Examination from the above College, died suddenly before the examination, and praying that, under the circumstances, the fee paid by the deceased candidate, may be refunded.

ORDERED—

That the fee paid by the deceased be refunded to his brother, Sasibhushan Nandi, through the Rector, Albert College.

450. Read an application from Abinaschandra Chakrabarti, praying that he may be allowed to appear at the F. A. Examination, the Entrance certificate granted to him by the Allahabad University being accepted as equivalent to the Entrance certificate of this University, and forwarding the written permission of the Registrar, Allahabad University, in support of his application.

ORDERED—

That the applicant be informed that he will be admitted to the F. A. Examination, provided he satisfies the requirements of this University other than the production of a certificate of having passed its Entrance Examination.

451. Read an application from H. F. Mitchell, praying that, under the circumstances therein set forth, he may be allowed to appear at the next F. A. Examination.

ORDERED—

That the applicant be informed that his prayer cannot be granted.

452. Read an endorsement from the Principal, Dacca College, forwarding an application from Jogendrakisor Datta, enquiring whether, under the circumstances therein set forth, he may complete the two years' course of study required under paragraph 2 of the B. A. Regulations, if he joins the 4th-year class at the beginning of the next session.

ORDERED—

That the Principal, Dacca College, be informed that the applicant will be admitted to the B. A. Examination provided he attends lectures in the 4th year class from the beginning of the next session and keeps the required percentage of attendance in each of the subjects prescribed for the examination.

453. The Registrar enquired whether a third volume of the Tagore Law Lectures delivered by the Hon'ble Muhammad Yousuff Khan Bahadur is to be printed.

It appears that in his letter of the 12th September, 1892, the Superintendent, Baptist Mission Press, estimated the cost of printing 1,500 pages of text, English and Arabic, with (say) another 100 pages for table of contents and index, or 1,600 pages, in all, at Rs. 3,600. This was at the rate of Rs. 2-4 a page, on an assumed issue of 500 copies, in accordance with the following scale :—

Printing 500 copies of Tagore Law Lectures :—

		Rs. A.
Setting up per page 1 8
Printing 0 6
Paper 0 14
		<hr/>
		2 12
Less $\frac{1}{3}$ for setting up 0 8
		<hr/>

The deduction 8 annas a page for setting up was made in conformity with the customary practice of permitting the author to print a second issue of 500 copies (more or less) for his own use, on condition that he repaid to the University one-third of the cost of setting up the type, and all the other expenses of such second issue. These terms had already been accepted by Maulavi Muhammad Yousuff in his letter of the 9th February, 1892, to the Registrar.

The estimate above referred to was forwarded by the Registrar, under the orders of the Syndicate, to Maulavi Muhammad Yousuff on the 15th February, 1893; and in his letter of the 22nd idem, Maulavi Muhammad Yousuff agreed to the excision of 250 texts of the Traditions, in English and Arabic, estimated at 67 pages. The proposal was accepted by the Syndicate, and the decision communicated to the Superintendent, Baptist Mission Press, in the Registrar's letter of the 5th May, 1893, for his information and guidance.

It follows therefore that the Syndicate have consented to the issue of the Lectures at an outside length of 1,433 pages, plus table of contents and index; and even if these latter be estimated, after the reduction in the extent of the Lectures at the original length of 100 pages, the limit is extended to 1,533 pages and no more; and the expenditure sanctioned by the Syndicate, at Rs. 2-4 a page, is limited to Rs. 3,449-4-0.

No reference is made in this correspondence, or in the order of the Syndicate, to the cost of binding. The sanctioned number of 1,533 pages will occupy two volumes and the cost of binding 500 copies in two volumes at 9 annas a volume (the rate specified by the Baptist Mission Press) will be Rs. 562-8-0. This further charge will, therefore, have to be borne by the University.

It now appears that the matter in type or proposed to be put in type by Maulavi Muhammad Yousuff, without his having obtained from the Syndicate any authority for such increase, amounts to considerably over 2,000 pages; and the Superintendent of the Baptist Mission Press has requested instructions as to how far he may go in printing such additional matter.

The Syndicate having taken the foregoing statement of facts into consideration, it was resolved—

That the Superintendent, Baptist Mission Press, be informed that the Syndicate hold themselves responsible for the scale of expenditure sanctioned in their letter of the 5th May, 1893, namely, for the printing of 1,533 pages of the Tagore Law Lectures at a rate not exceeding Rs. 2-4 a page; and also for the binding of the work in two volumes, at a rate not exceeding 9 annas a volume; and that all further charges in connection with the issue of the Lectures will be met by Maulavi Muhammad Yousuff, to whom a copy of the foregoing statement and resolution will be forwarded. The acceptance of these terms by Maulavi Mahammad Yousuff will be communicated to the Superintendent as soon as received.

RESOLVED ALSO—

That a copy of the foregoing statement and Resolution be forwarded to Maulavi Muhammad Yousuff with the request that he will be good enough to inform the Syndicate whether he agrees to the terms therein stated, namely, that he will defray all the costs of printing and binding the Lectures in excess of the sums specified in the Resolution.

454. The Registrar enquired whether Rs. 25 and Rs. 15, claimed by the officer in charge of the recent University Examinations at Backerganj as remunerations to his office clerks for superintending the examination and to the person who prepared the plan of the examination rooms, may be paid.

ORDERED—

That the charges be disallowed.

455. The Registrar pointed out certain items in the bills forwarded by the Director of Public Instruction, Burma, and the officer in charge of the Entrance Examination at Ranchi, representing expenses incurred at the recent Entrance Examination, which are of an unusual nature, and enquired whether such charges are to be paid.

ORDERED—

That the Director of Public Instruction, Burma, and the Officer in charge of the Entrance Examination at Ranchi, be informed that the items in question represent charges which are of an unusual nature, and which should, in the opinion of the Syndicate, be borne by the local authorities.

456. Read an application from the Proprietor of the Bankipur Anglo-Sanskrit School, requesting that the Institution may be recognised by the University as a High School qualified to send up candidates to the Entrance Examination.

ORDERED—

That the application be returned to the Proprietor, Bankipur Anglo-Sanskrit School, with the request that he will obtain the usual certificate from the local Inspector of Schools in support of the application.

457. Read an application from Thomas Hudson Paramasamy, praying that, under the circumstances mentioned in the application, he may be allowed to appear at the B. A. Examination without passing the intermediate examinations, or may be allowed to appear at the F. A. Examination without being required to pass the Entrance Examination.

That the applicant be informed that his prayer cannot be granted.

458. Read a letter from the Prefect, College Department, St. Xavier's College, forwarding a petition from certain candidates at the recent F. A. Examination from the above College, praying that the examiners in Latin may be instructed to make some allowance in awarding marks, on the ground that there is an unusually great disparity between the Latin papers and the papers in the other second languages set at the examination.

ORDERED—

That the letter be laid before the Board of the Moderators in Arts for consideration.

On the back of each voting paper there shall be printed the names of all candidates who shall have been duly nominated, with the name of the member nominating each of such candidates. Should the number of candidates duly nominated be too great to allow of the names of each of them, with the name of the member nominating him, being printed on the back of the voting paper, then such additional page or pages shall be appended to each voting paper, with the names of the candidates duly nominated, and of the member nominating each candidate. The names of such candidates shall be printed on the back of the voting paper and on such additional page or pages in the order in which the nominations of such candidates shall have been received by the Registrar.

Should there be more nominations than one for any candidate received by the Registrar, there shall be printed on the back of such voting paper or such additional page, as the case may be, only the nomination of that member whose nomination of such candidate was first received by the Registrar.

7. The Registrar shall keep in his custody all nomination papers which may be received by him.

8. On or before the 15th of May, 1895, the Registrar shall transmit by post to the recorded, or (in the case of members for the time being in England) ascertained, address of each member of the Senate a voting paper in the form and containing the particulars hereinbefore provided. The Registrar shall fill in, in the place indicated for that purpose on the face of the voting paper, the name of the member to whom the voting paper is issued, and he shall countersign such voting paper in the lower left-hand corner. No voting papers shall be used for the recording of votes, save such as shall have been issued and countersigned by the Registrar.

9. With each voting paper issued on or before the 15th of May, the Registrar shall send a notice stating the day on or before which the voting paper duly filled up must be returned to and received by him. The day so to be stated shall be the 29th of June, 1895, before 12 noon. The Registrar shall attend at the Senate House on the 29th June, 1895, from 9 A. M. to 12 noon, and shall receive the voting papers of such members of the Senate as may desire to give their votes before him.

10. Each member of the Senate who may desire to give his vote before the Registrar on that day, shall hand his voting paper to the Registrar, filled up and signed by him, and the Registrar shall, upon the same being duly filled up, receive it and record the vote thereby given in favor of the candidate whose name is written therein in a book to be kept by him for the purpose.

11. Any member of the Senate may, if he thinks fit, send or hand to the Registrar his voting paper, duly filled in and signed by him. In such case the signature must be acknowledged by such member before the Registrar or before a Magisterial officer (including an Honorary Magistrate), or before a Judge, Subordinate Judge, or a Munsiff (excluding village Munsiff). In the absence of a Magisterial or a Judicial officer of the rank aforesaid in a Native State, the signature must be acknowledged before the Chief Minister or the Chief Magisterial officer of the State. In the case of members for the time being in England, the signature must be acknowledged before a Magistrate or a Justice of the Peace. The officer before whom such acknowledgment is made, or the Registrar, as the case may be, shall then countersign the signature to the voting paper, as having been acknowledged before him by the person whose signature it bears.

12. No vote shall be recorded by the Registrar unless the same shall have been either given before him at the Senate House on the 29th June, 1895, as before mentioned, or else by a voting paper duly filled in, and the signature on which shall have been countersigned in the manner hereinbefore provided.

13. All voting papers handed or sent to the Registrar must be handed to him, or sent to him so that they shall reach him, on or before the 29th June, 1895, by 12 noon.

14. MINUTES OF THE SYNDICATE

FOR THE YEAR 1894-95.

No. 23.

THE 20TH APRIL, 1895.

(In Circulation.)

511. The Registrar reported that certain Members of the Senate were in England temporarily, who might be willing while in England, to exercise their right to vote in the matter of the election for the Bengal Council, and asked whether the election papers should be sent to them, and whether any rule should be framed for countersignature in their case.

RESOLVED—

That as the date fixed for election would admit of their vote being obtained, the election papers be sent to them, and that it be intimated to them that they must acknowledge their signature before a Magistrate or a Justice of the Peace.

(Confirmed.)

A. M. BOSE,
Chairman.

In making the proposal, Babu Kalicharan Banerjee said that he had the melancholy duty of pointing out that Dr. Trailokyanath Mitra, whose name appeared in the recommendation of the Syndicate, as a member of the Faculty of Arts and as the President of the Faculty of Law, had since passed away from among them. He was sure that when the Faculty of Law met, as they would soon meet, to elect a President in his place, they would record a suitable resolution as a tribute to his memory. The Senate, however, could not allow the occasion to pass, without giving expression to their deep sense of the great and even irreparable loss which not only the University but public bodies generally, and indeed, the entire community had sustained by the untimely and sudden death of Dr. Trailokyanath Mitra.

Babu Ganeschandra Chandra seconded the motion.

The Hon'ble Sirajul-Islam, Khan Bahadur, moved, as an amendment, that the names of Maulavi Shams-ul Huda, Babu Sirischandra Chaudhuri, Babu Debaprasad Sarbadhikari, and Babu Bhupendranath Basu be added to the Faculty of Law.

Babu Saradacharan Mitra seconded the amendment, which was carried.

Babu Bipinbihari Gupta moved as a further amendment, that the name of Mr. J. C. Bose be added to the Faculty of Engineering.

The Rev. Father E. Lafont seconded the amendment, which was carried.

The original motion, as amended, was then put to the meeting and carried. In putting it, the Chairman added his personal testimony to the worth of Dr. Mitra.

518. Dr. Asutosh Mukhopadhyay moved that the Committee appointed by the Senate on the 3rd January, 1891, to consider the needs of the University, and the best means of providing for those needs, not having yet submitted their Report, and the Chairman and the Secretary of the Committee having left India on furlough, the Committee be reconstituted as follows, with instructions to report within three months :—

Mr. A. M. Bose.

Babu Kalicharan Banerjee.

Dr. P. K. Ray.

The Hon'ble Mr. Justice Gooroo Dass Banerjee.

Dr. K. S. Macdonald.

Rai Lalmadhab Mukerjee, Bahadur.

* Rai Rajkumar Sarbadhikari, Bahadur.

Babu Ishanchandra Bose.

Babu Rajaninath Ray.

Dr. Asutosh Mukerjee.

The Registrar, ex-officio.

Dr. Mukerjee pointed out that the Committee submitted a Report in December, 1891, which was not accepted by the Senate, and the matter was remitted to them for a fuller report. That report was not forthcoming, although their attention was called to it in December, 1894, when they were directed to submit it within two months.

The Rev. Father E. Lafont seconded the motion.

Babu Rajaninath Ray said he would oppose the motion on the ground that no good was likely to come of the re-constitution of the Committee. At the time the original Committee was appointed, there was need for considering how the income of the University might be raised. A deficit had to be met, and certain expensive schemes were in contemplation. But now the financial position had considerably improved, and there was no clamour for the schemes being brought into operation.

The motion was lost, 10 voting for, and 14 against it.

519. Babu Kalicharan Banerjee proposed that, as recommended by the Syndicate, in para. 6 of the Rules for Election to the Government Scholarships (p. 227, Calendar for 1895), the word "May" be substituted for "March."

Babu Kalicharan Banerjee pointed out that the materials upon which the nomination was based, were not in readiness early enough for the purposes of the rule as it stood.

Babu Umeschandra Datta seconded the motion.

Mr. A. M. Bose suggested that instead of the word "May," the words "May in the year" be substituted, as the scholarship was awarded in June.

The suggestion was accepted, and the motion, as modified in accordance with it, was carried.

520. Babu Kalicharan Banerjee proposed that, as recommended by the Syndicate, the following changes be made in paras. 1 and 3 respectively of the Rules for Examinations, under heading "II—Special (a) Entrance Examination" (p. 136, Calendar for 1895):—

(a.) That in para. 1, against "Wednesday, Second Language," for—

{ "Poetry and Prose from 10 A.M. to 1 P.M.
Translation into a vernacular and Composition from 2 P.M. to 5 P.M.,"

the following be substituted :—

{ "1st paper from 10 A.M. to 1 P.M. ; Text and Grammar.
2nd paper from 2 P.M. to 5 P.M. Translation and Composition."

(b.) That in para. 3, after the words "Second Language," for "(1 paper), 80, Translation and Composition (1 paper), 40," the following be substituted : "1st paper, 80, 2nd paper, 40."

Babu Kalicharan Banerjee explained that the object was to make the rule applicable to all Second languages, and to secure uniformity in the Second language papers as regards distribution of subjects and marks.

Babu Debendranath Ray seconded the motion, which was carried.

521. Babu Kalicharan Banerjee proposed that, as recommended by the Syndicate, A. L. deSilva and J. E.

Pereira be admitted to the F. A. Examination in 1896 as teachers without being required to pass the Entrance Examination, on the ground of their having passed the Senior Local Examination of the Cambridge University.

Mr. J. S. Zemin seconded the motion, which was carried.

The President referred to the death of Dr. Trailokyanath Mitra since the Faculty had last met, and moved that the following Minute be recorded:—

The Faculty have heard with deep regret of the sudden death of Dr. Trailokyanath Mitra. Dr. Mitra obtained the highest distinctions of the University in Arts and in Law, and adorned them in every sphere of life he was called upon to occupy. One of the foremost Members of the Faculty, he worthily represented them more than once in the Syndicate, and was their President elect for the ensuing year, when he passed away. As a Member of the Bar, he was distinguished for his sound knowledge of Law, for his effective advocacy, and for thorough conscientiousness in the discharge of his duties. His lectures on "the Hindu widow" are among the most valuable in the Tagore Law series. The Faculty resolve to place on record their deep sense of the loss they have sustained by his death, and their high appreciation of his character and attainments.

Raja Pyarimohan Mukerjee seconded the motion, which was carried.

The Hon'ble Sir Griffith Evans moved that the Hon'ble Mr. Justice C. H. Hill, M. A., be elected President of the Faculty for the year 1895-96.

Babu Goneschandra Chandra seconded the motion, which was carried.

Babu Kalicharan Banerjee moved that the name of Dr. Asutosh Mukerjee be added to the Committee appointed at the last meeting to revise the list of text books, and, if desirable, the course of study in Law for the examinations in 1897.

Babu Goneschandra Chandra seconded the motion, which was carried.

An incident that arose out of the B.L. Examination of 1893 deserves a passing reference. One of the candidates, who had gained more than the 300 marks specified, by an oversight in the Calendar, as the qualifying standard for the B.L. degree, but who had failed to gain the 400 marks which under the revised scale it was the actual intention of the University to fix, brought a suit in the High Court against the University, praying that he might be declared under the Specific Relief Act to be entitled to the degree. As the learned Judge stated that he could discover no trace on the part of the University of any desire to grant him the degree, nor any indication that he was otherwise qualified for it, his suit failed, and a decree was pronounced against him.
